HUGE SHIPS MOVE

Both France and Britain to Hold Manoeuvres As League Meets

Greatest Naval Concentration in History Will be Effected

PARIS, Jan. 8.—All admirals and captains of the French Atlantic fleet today began a map study of naval tactics.

The theme of the drill, which will last for two days, was kept secret, but was supposedly based on the imaginary appearance of an enemy fleet in French waters.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 8. — The British and French navies are moving mysteriously. When the council of the League of Nations meets on Jan. 20, the Mediterranean will be the scene of one of the greatest naval concentrations in history.

In addition to Great Britain's naval strength, the French first and second squadrons with a total of 92 warships ranging from battleships to submarines will then be cruising in the middle of the sea.

The British home fleet units now at Gibraltar, comprising the Hood, Ramillies, Irion and Neptune will be returning to the United Kingdom. But the Nelson and Rodney—the world's most powerful fighting ships—together with the Furious and Cairo and the 21st destroyer flotilla will leave home for a "spring cruise" beginning about the middle of January.

NOT DISCLOSED

The exact destination of these ships is not disclosed. The admiralty announcement said they are leaving in accordance with the normal annual practice. Spring cruises usually start a month or two later.

They Get Their Toxoid

To guard the five Dionne sisters from any threat of diphtheria, Dr. A. R. Dafoe decided that they should be "toxoided." The doctor is shown here with Dr. A. L. McKay and Nurse Lameroux inoculating Yvonne, who doesn't seem to mind it a bit, but wonders what it's all about. All five children took the inoculation without a murmur of protest.

Each Quintuplet Now Worth $24,000 In Own Right, Dr. Dafoe Says

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 8.—The Dionne quintuplets who have passed the first 19 months of their lives practically free of illness, have completed a course of toxoid treatment for the prevention of diphtheria, it was announced today by Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe. Although every possible precaution is taken at the hospital home of the babes to guard against sickness, Dr. Dafoe felt the risk was too great to leave them unprotected.

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 8.—The 19-months-old Dionne Quintuplets will soon have enough money to retire for life if their present rate of income continues.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe and Judge J. A. Valin, guardians to the famous chi'dren, announced Tuesday each babe was worth about $24,000 in her own right.

Between them the sisters have in a trust fund $120,000 of government bonds, amassed since the Ontario government took charge of their affairs a year ago almost to the day.

If they live to three years of age, present contracts assure the quints $300,000.

"It is our aim and the aim of the guardians to bring the trust fund up to the point where the interest will support them without touching the principal," said Welfare Minister Croll. "We place that amount at about $500,000 which we expect to reach in a year or year and a half."

During the last year, about $23,000 has been spent enlarging and equipping the hospital where the quints live. Pay for nurses and salaries of provincial police to patrol the place day and night comes out of the fund.

Regular payments are made to the parents while the guardians pay out nearly $1,000 monthly for the operating cost of the hospital. In all about $35,000 has been expended this year.

The babies' fortune is being built up by income from movie shorts, the feature picture, "The Country Doctor," royalties on postcards, calendars, dresses, coats, bonnets and dolls.

SOCRED GOVT. FUTURE SOON TO BE KNOWN

Useless to Make Predictions Until Session Program Outlined

Future of the Aberhart Social Credit government as well as the Saskatchewan and British Columbia governments should be clarified and fairly definitely known, within five weeks, D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader declared on Wednesday, in discussing the financial outlook of the province.

"It is useless to make predictions as to the life of the Alberta government or what it might do, until we know the sessional program of the Alberta government and the attitude to be adopted toward maturing western obligations by the Dominion government," said Mr. Duggan.

"A lot depends on the attitude to be adopted by Ottawa. Alberta has

PLAN LAID TO TURN OVER TAX COLLECTION JOB

Federal Government May Function For the Provinces

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Negotiations for the federal government to collect the new Ontario provincial income tax are under way between Queens Park and Ottawa.

The rates of taxation will not be the same, due to the divergent fiscal requirements of the Dominion and the province, but a common gradation will be sought, with a common basis of exemptions and supertaxes.

The provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have intimated their willingness to have Dominion collect their income taxes. When these provinces adopted income tax they took the Dominion Act, and will simply turn over the job of collecting.

B.C. HAS OWN

British Columbia has its own income tax with special rates and gradations and so far as Ottawa is informed intends to continue its individual collection.

In practice the Dominion will distribute the different forms in each province, form in each case comprising Dominion imposts and

Man's Right On Leap Year Is To Be Safeguarded

BURLINGTON, Ont., Jan. 8.—Men will be safe in Burlington this Leap Year.

Said Chief Constable L. J. Smith today:

"If any male citizen complains of being made an offer of marriage and, instead of being highly flattered, feels he is the victim of a conspiracy, public nuisance, or threat; then, if the case is substantiated, no police officer could refuse to give each protection as the law may provide.

"Man's most prized prerogative, that of proposing, should be safeguarded Leap Year or no Leap Year."

AIMEE SPEAKS HER MIND ON SEX, BRAINS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8.—Aimee Semple McPherson spoke her mind Tuesday on sex and brains.

"Sex has nothing to do with the pulpit and pants do not make preachers," Aimee said in telling her Four Square Gospel convention there would be no discrimination between men and women in appointments.

"I believe I have learned from experience that the male sex has no monopoly on intelligence. In fact, I have been led to believe at times that stupidity is an outstanding masculine characteristic. I do not mean to say, of course, that all men are stupid, or even that men as a rule are more stupid than women. But I do maintain that they are no more intelligent.

SOCREDS WILL GIVE SUPPORT NATION BANK

Will Not Bring Social Credit Before Parliament Officially This Session

Support of the Social Credit group for Premier Mackenzie King's move to transfer the Bank of Canada from private to public control will be forthcoming at the parliamentary session opening on Feb. 6, it was learned on Wednesday after the caucus of Social Credit members of parliament from Alberta and Saskatchewan at the legislative buildings under the chairmanship of J. H. Blackmore, Lethbridge, elected group house leader at Ottawa.

It was also learned that no direct move will be made at the session, by way of resolution, to bring institution of Social Credit before the house in full dress debate. Social Credit members, it was learned, will support any measure for the best interests of the Dominion and which may tend toward the ultimate objects for which Social Credit stands.

WILL WORK FOR ALL

Questioned on these two points, Mr. Blackmore was fairly definite on the Social Credit resolution, but was more reticent on the transfer of the national bank, his attitude being that ultimate decision would rest with what argument was advanced by Premier King at Ottawa.

However, it was learned on most reliable authority, that the Social Credit members is to support the publicly owned bank.

Asked regarding progress of the caucus, Mr. Blackmore stated that most of the morning had been occupied discussing the financial ROME, Jan. 8. — Premier Mussolini may pour 100,000 more men into his East African campaign for conquest of Ethiopia, unofficial but informed Fascist sources disclosed today. Five new troop divisions probably will be created in addition to the fresh units already organized, these sources said, to inject new power into the invading armies.

Four thousand Alpine troops already were en route across the Mediterranean and 2,500 Alpine artillerymen sailed yesterday to join Italy's East African forces, estimated at upward of 250,000 men.

New Fascist Blackshirt militia units and a temporary infantry division were created to replace these forces at home in Mussolini's million-man total armies.

Italy Reinforcing With Barbed Wire

ALEXANDRIA, Jan. 8.—Italy is pouring large shipments of troops, airplanes and war supplies into Benghazi, one of its chief Libyan ports, on the Mediterranean, 200 miles west of the Egyptian border, reports reaching here said last night.

Observers said there was a barbed-wire rampart nearly 20 feet thick and more than six feet high, along the entire 650-mile stretch of the Libyan-Egyptian boundary.

Tobruck, another Libyan port 75 miles from the Egyptian frontier, has been turned into an Italian naval base, according to further reports.

The Libyan army command has issued strict orders to shoot down anyone who puts a foot across the border without authorization, it was understood.

TRUCKS FORCE RAIL HALT

"To continue to maintain and operate obsolete mileage is an economic waste.

"Truck transportation is here to stay. That fact calls for revision of the railroad map," he said.

LICENSE YEAR FOR MOTORISTS NOW CHANGED

Annual Driver's License at $1 Will be Instituted

Institution in Alberta of a scheme of annual automobile drivers licenses with an annual charge of $1, instead of the 50 cent "in perpetuity" license hitherto in vogue, was announced on Wednesday by Premier William Aberhart.

The premier also announced that as from April 1, 1937, the automobile license year would correspond with the fiscal year and that the current license year, therefore, would be from Jan. 1, 1936 until March 31, 1937 of 15 months, in order to satisfactorily make the change.

The drivers licenses were instituted several years ago by the U.F.A. government.

The charge was 50 cents and the driver held that license forever, unless it was cancelled for violation of legislation.

HIGHER RATE

In making the license an annual charge at a higher rate, the government is falling more in line with the practice of other provinces, most of which have to be $1 per year license, with Quebec topping the scale with $3 a year.

In announcing change of the license year, the Premier said it was distressing to people to have to purchase new licenses at the end of the calendar year and particularly if they did not drive their cars for a while. If they did drive them, even the strain of Christmas shopping prompted them to get the

MAYOR HOPES 50-MILL RATE WILL BE SET

About $100,000 Pruned From Departmental Estimates by Board

With approximately $100,000 pruned by the city commission board from original 1936 estimates and the possibility of the adoption of an equalization plan for sinking fund payments this year, Mayor Jos. A. Clarke announced Wednesday he was framing a tentative 1936 mill rate would not be higher than 50. Indications are that the question of a salary revision for civic employees will be considered by council when the budget is reviewed.

BEFORE COUNCIL

The commission board has nearly completed its study of the city's estimated expenditure and revenue for this year, and figures will be placed before aldermen for their consideration at council's regular meeting next Monday or at a special meeting later next week. Larger spending departments are the police, fire, engineering and special relief departments.

EQUAL PAYMENTS

Equalization scheme for the Sinking Fund as proposed by City Comptroller John Hodgson calls for equal payments to be made into the fund over a 20-year period. Under the existing system, payments are often large in one year and comparatively small the next. If they were equalized the same amount would be paid every year which would be a factor in preventing the upward trend of the mill rate. The city can secure power to give effect to such a plan through the medium of a charter amendment approved by the provincial legislature.

separate items for income tax of that particular province only. In provinces where there is no income tax or collection is retained by the province, the form will be as at present, a purely Dominion affair.

The tentative plan provides for collection of the provincial income tax by the federal machinery, using one form, but with the taxes separated. The Dominion rates will be set in Hon. Charles Dunning's new budget at the coming session of parliament, while the provincial rates will be laid down by the provincial treasury and approved by the legislature.

The authority of parliament and legislature having been secured for the rates, the two governments will agree on the machinery of collection and allocation.

SURRENDERS NOTHING

In handing over the collection of its income taxes to the Dominion, Ontario will surrender no taxation rights of any kind. The province will set the rates and the categories, the Dominion will undertake only the mechanics of collection.

The present negotiations have to do with these mechanics. The objective is to simplify the return so that the information supplied will be adequate for both Dominion and province, and only the amounts to be paid in each division will vary, and these will be clearly set out.

The federal income tax provides exemption up to $1,000 for unmarried persons, and $2,000 for married taxpayers, with $400 exemption for each child. These may be increased in the coming budget, the former Dunning budget providing more substantial exemptions.

TAX RATE SHOWN

The dominion tax rate is 3 per cent on the first taxable $1,000, 4 per cent on the second and so on up a sliding scale. These rates may be continued in the coming budget of may be readjusted. The province has still to set its rates. These rates will be discussed with the Dominion, being solely a matter for the province to decide. It is reported that not unofficially than the provincial rate will be 20 per cent of the federal rate. The dominion is also expected in this rate, as much as the gradations and exemptions. If these are uniform collection will be simplified.

The Ontario proposals have not yet been communicated to Ottawa, but will they be discussed at the forthcoming treasurers conference, being matter only for the dominion and the province of Ontario.

Bank Of Canada May Become Agent

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Bank of Canada will become the fiscal agent of some of the provinces as an outcome of the Dominion-Provincial treasury conference which takes place in the capital next Monday.

The charter of the bank provides that it may act for the provinces as well as for the Dominion, but so far the provinces have not availed themselves of facilities of the bank.

At a recent federal-provincial conference an official of the bank of Canada sat in on the financial discussions and in the financial committee, and provincial treasurers have been considering the matter since.

Water Users Ask Delayed Payments

Premier William Aberhart on Wednesday stated that he had received no report from the meeting of the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District for an extension on the moratorium granted from payment of rates.

The premier said that the government did not desire to disturb any arrangement that might not be for the better, which might mean he would favor extending the moratorium.

He said, however, that irrigation must be placed on a paying basis and it was his earnest desire to co-operate with the water users, but could state nothing definite until he received the petition.

Northeastern Dairy Conference Addressed Following Criticisms of U. S. and Canada Treaty.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—Dairy interests were told last night by a state department spokesman that their business will be helped rather than harmed by the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade program.

That contention was made to the Northeastern Dairy Conference, meeting here, by Henry F. Grady, chief of the department's trade agreements division. His address followed criticisms of the United States reciprocal trade pact with Canada.

The speaker said tariff benefits had been obtained for the American dairy industry in similar pacts with Haiti, Colombia, Honduras and Brazil.

In the light of these, he termed the lowered rate to Canada on cream and on certain types of cheeses from both Canada and the Netherlands as "small cuts" that the industry must pay "for the sort of protection which will restore it on a sound and prosperous basis."

CONSIDERATION TO NEEDS

"The trade agreements program is not a trade program," Grady asserted. "Most careful consideration is given to the needs of domestic industry for protection. The program merely seeks to restore normal relationships in inter-nation trade by means of reasonable adjustments in our tariffs and a corresponding liberalization of imports restrictions abroad."

the movements of the French fleet announced yesterday are not the result of a previous Anglo-French arrangement and that the British home fleet movements have no political significance.

However, these movements follow on conversations between the British and French general staffs on joint measurements to be taken should Italy, as a result of the application of sanctions, resort to acts of war.

In some quarters it was pointed out today that naval movements in the Mediterranean since August have officially been described as "cruises" and Prime Minister Baldwin employed the same terms when explaining to the House of Commons the fleet concentration at Alexandria.

Meanwhile all admirals and commanders of the second French squadron are gathered at Brest for two days of intensive map study under supervision of Vice-Admiral Dubois. Subject of study is being kept strictly secret but it is generally supposed to be connected with recent conversations between British and French staff officers.

M'GEER SEEKS FEDERAL HELP

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8.—Mayor G. G. McGeer announced Tuesday he is seeking co-operation of the Dominion government in his proposal to hold a British Empire Exposition here in 1938.

In a letter to Prime Minister Mackenzie King the Vancouver mayor said he has asked federal aid in obtaining participation of Great Britain and British dominions and colonies in the exposition.

Although 1938 was chosen tentatively because he believed the exposition would attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from the San Francisco world fair being held the same year, the mayor said he believed it would also serve to bring a consciousness and responsibility of Canada's western gateway to the Pacific to Canadians.

MAYNARD LIKELY DEPUTY SPEAKER

Lucien Maynard, M.L.A. for Beaver River, is the probable selection for the post of deputy speaker of the legislature, according to well-informed circles.

While the government has made no official announcement on either the appointment of J. E. Tanner, M.L.A. for Cardston, as speaker, or Mr. Maynard as deputy speaker, it is understood Mr. Maynard has received governmental approval for the post.

Additional confirmation is given to Mr. Maynard's probable selection by reason of the fact that he is a northern member, sitting for Beaver River, whereas Mr. Tanner is from the south.

In the house the speaker, G. N. Johnston, was from Coronation and the deputy, Milton C. McKeen, from the north, Lac Ste. Anne.

So insiders feel Mr. Maynard is a good bet for the deputy speakership.

It is known that Solon Low, Social Credit member for Taber was highly favored for a post, but it is also known the government desired to keep him on the floor of the house for debating purposes, as he is rated one of their best in this regard.

At the present time, the Dominion government holds about $18,000,000 in Alberta treasury notes. Prior to 1st issue of Jan. 15 being met, further aid will have to be met. Redemption of Alberta Savings Certificates has been suspended since before the Reid government went out of office and Premier Aberhart has stated that they cannot be made liquid until further assistance is forthcoming from Ottawa.

Premier To Discuss Sunday Lectures

Premier William Aberhart on Wednesday stated that he had received notice of petitions widely circulated, asking that one lecture a week be given here along prophetic lines and similar to those given at his Prophetic Bible Institute at Calgary.

As a result, the Premier is meeting the petitioners on Thursday evening to discuss the whole matter.

He also stated that he hoped to meet representatives of the Ministerial Association so as to avoid as far as possible, any overlapping between his lectures and church services.

No definite arrangements have yet been completed for the lectures.

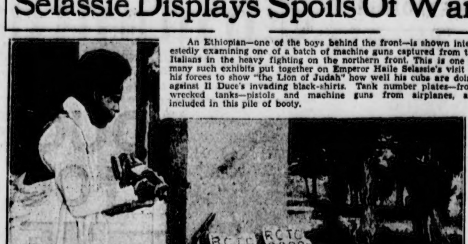

MAN MISSING IN GAS-BOAT

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8—Howard Galbraith, 48, was missing in the north arm of Burrard Inlet in the 35-foot gasboat "Ellen G." last night as the Dominion meteorological bureau here issued a general warning of an expected southeast gale.

Another man, John Blackmore, of Lulu Island, narrowly escaped drowning today when his gasboat was swamped about a mile off Point Grey. He was found on the beach near Point Grey in an exhausted condition after he had swam from his boat about a mile offshore.

Hon. J. W. Hugill, K.C., attorney-general, will address the Edmonton Bar Association at a meeting to be held on Thursday.

Selassie Displays Spoils Of War

An Ethiopian—one of the boys behind the front—is shown interestedly examining one of a batch of machine guns captured from the Italians in the heavy fighting on the northern front. This is one of many such exhibits put together on Emperor Haile Selassie's visit to his forces to show "the Lion of Judah" how well his cubs are doing against the Italian "black-shirts." Tank number plates—from wrecked tanks—pistols and machine guns from airplanes, are included in this pile of booty.

CONDITIONS ON AUTO DEALERS UNFAIR, CLAIM

Board Told Car Prices Cannot be Reduced at Expense of Dealers

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Conditions imposed on automobile dealers by manufacturers have been unfair, the tariff board was told Tuesday by R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, representing the Dominion Automobile Dealers Association. He claimed the price of cars could not be reduced at the expense of dealers who have been operating on an unprofitable basis.

The board heard a lively argument as to whether chassis frames for automobiles could be manufactured economically in Canada. R. J. Magor, president of the National Steel Car Company, Hamilton, Ont., said his company was in a position to produce them and asked protection.

The Dominion Automobile Dealers Association brief, read by Mr. Sparks, said the objective of the inquiry was lower-priced motor cars and retail prices were entirely controlled by manufacturers.

"The used car," said the brief, "becomes the dominating factor in determining whether the dealer can operate at a profit or at a loss. We are submitting figures obtained as a result of a comprehensive trade survey which will prove beyond doubt that losses on used cars more than offset profits on new cars, and the result is that the total new and used cars sold in Canada are sold at a net loss."

Pilot Back At Work After 2-Year Absence

Rudy Huess, Canadian Airways pilot, came back to work in the Mackenzie River district Wednesday morning after an absence of two years.

Promotion of C. H. "Punch" Dickins, W. R. "Wop" May and Lewis Leigh necessitated shifting another pilot into this district and Huess, who has been flying for Canadian Airways in Northern Manitoba, was picked for the job. He has been with the company for more than five years and has two years' experience in the Northland, as well as in Quebec and Ontario.

He renewed acquaintances with Edmonton Canadian Airways officials in their offices Wednesday morning and will remain here until a plane "comes out" to take him to Fort McMurray.

new plates early, but it was felt matters would be much more satisfactory to all concerned if the change was made to the fiscal year instead of the calendar year.

In the last several years, there has been considerable agitation both in the legislature and out, to have this change made.

SAME TAX REFUND

The Premier also stated that consideration was being given by the government to placing a refund on the fuel oil and he took occasion to deny that the government contemplated doubling the refund on fuel oil to farmers using same for agricultural purposes.

"The gas tax refund to farmers for agricultural purposes will be the same," he said, "but we will put a tax on all fuel oil, to circumvent any malpractice that has been going on."

At present only certain grades of fuel oil are taxed and it has been reported to the government that inferior grades have been mixed to get around taxing. So the new measure will get around this.

The Premier said that necessary legislation for his proposed changes would be introduced at the coming session of the legislature.

EXPECT EARLY ANNOUNCEMENT ABOUT FOSTER

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Early announcement is expected to be made of the appointment of Senator Walter E. Foster, of Saint John, N.B., as speaker of the senate in the next parliament.

A former dominion secretary of state and at one time Liberal premier of New Brunswick, his name has been prominently mentioned for the post.

Senator Foster would succeed Hon. P. E. Blondin, who presided over the upper house during the last five sessions, carrying out the practice of alternating between a French and English speaker in successive parliaments.

RENT PAYMENTS HIGHER IN 1935

Rent collections made on city-owned property by the land department during 1935 totalled $125,796, an increase of $10,500 as compared to $107,389 for 1934, Superintendent John Paterson reported Wednesday.

For December collections were $11,906 as against $10,528 for December, 1934.

Increase in the amount of property being rented by the city is given as a reason for the larger collections last year.

BRUNO TOLD HE WILL DIE JANUARY 17

Hauptmann Informed By Principal Keeper of Prison Tuesday

TRENTON, N.J., Jan. 8. — Mark Kimberling, principal keeper, informed Bruno Richard Hauptmann Tuesday that unless the court of pardons intervenes he must die late next week for the murder of Charles Lindbergh, Jr. He told Hauptmann the day and the hour—reported to be eight p.m. Jan. 17.

Hauptmann showed extreme drop peering eyes and a faint trace of a smile—did not change, Kimberling said. Neither did his story of how he obtained the ransom money.

To his spiritual adviser, Rev. John Matthiesen, Hauptmann displayed the same confidence. "I won't go through that door," he said, nodding in the direction of the big thick steel door a few paces away which leads to the execution chamber.

Smilingly, he turned toward the steel-grated front entrance of the death house. "I'll go out that one," he said.

Plans for Hauptmann's execution went forward. Kimberling sent out invitations to the 18 official witnesses, most of whom will be newspapermen.

questions and specially the national bank.

"We are working toward a crystallization of opinion, to clarify our views and bring individual knowledge to bear on the problems."

"Has any definite decision been arrived at as your attitude on the publicly owned national bank?" he was asked, to which he replied that no definite decision had been made.

"It is our desire to work at Ottawa for such legislation as will ultimately work for the best interests of the Canadian people and the consumers of Canada," he said.

TWO KINDS OF PLATFORM

"We are working on two kinds of platform, a federal one for the present session and our ultimate one, that is for the introduction of Social Credit throughout Canada."

Asked if any direct action would be taken at this session to press for Social Credit, Mr. Blackmore replied that "Little direct action will be taken toward Social Credit at this first session. The activity of the group will be mainly to support those measures which have Social Credit tendencies, which may not be apparent to some observers, but which we recognize.

"While actual definite decision has not been reached on introduction of a Social Credit resolution, indications are that there will be no direct action, the general feeling being that to introduce a motion before the people are sufficiently informed to understand its purpose, would be to invite defeat, disrespect and ridicule, which would not be in the interests of Social Credit and Canada as a whole."

Blackmore said the group would proceed to Ottawa to represent all Alberta, whether the people had supported Social Credit or not.

He expected the caucus to continue into Thursday, and probably Friday.

"Purchasing Power is Only Question Of Tickets," True-Blue Exponents of Social Credit Are Saying

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—A new horn of Premier Aberhart's dilemma has sprouted. True-blue exponents of Social Credit are saying that his scheme is a deviation from the Douglas plan; in fact, not constructed around the central core of the Douglas creed, which is that "purchasing power is simply a question of tickets."

Hence, the Douglas plan being the seventh remedy, the Aberhart plan is only a palliative which, if ever applied, will leave the patient in a worse state than before treatment.

FATAL ERROR

The fatal error of Aberhart, according to the true believers in the Douglas doctrine, is that he plans to raise the money to pay social dividends by a levy on sales.

The true believers point out that tax levies only have the effect of taking purchasing power from some people to give to others. And what is wanted is to increase purchasing power, which is "simply a question of tickets."

Let the government print and issue tickets. The government's I.O.U.'s will do the trick. How will the government redeem its I.O.U.'s, except by issuing a new batch of I.O.U.'s, after the fashion of the German government in 1921-22?

Such a question does not become the true believer.

Is there not the bottomless well of Social Credit which can be turned into purchasing power by judicious use of the printing press?

The thing now is to convert Aberhart to the true creed of Social Credit. For what would be the effect of trying to raise $120,000,000 by sales taxes in Alberta?

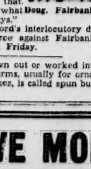

ALBERTA SHARE

According to preliminary estimates the aggregate incomes of the Canadian people this year will hardly exceed $5,000,000,000, and the share of Alberta with 7.5 per cent of the Canadian population, will be less than $300,000,000.

If everybody spent their income on consumer goods subject to the proposed sales tax, the rate of taxation on $300,000,000 required to raise $120,000,000 for Social Credit dividends would be 40 per cent. And this in addition to 15 to 20 per cent of the people's incomes which the Dominion, provincial and municipal governments now take for general purposes.

Doug Fairbanks Is Through With Acting Forever

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.— Douglas Fairbanks Sr. came "down the bay" last night aboard the liner Aquitania to announce he is through with acting forever and to refuse comment on his reported romance with Lady Ashley of England.

Irritated by a question he reminded him that "the public" was interested in his marital plans —if any—the 52-year-old actor shot back:

"I have nothing to say about that. I don't care what the public says."

MRS. G. BLACK SETTLES DOWN TO BUSINESS

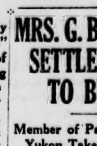

Member of Parliament for Yukon Takes Over Office in Ottawa

By THOMAS WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 8—The member of parliament, for the Yukon has arrived in Ottawa and has already settled down to business.

There is no question as to the riding Mrs. George Black represents. The smiling, white haired feminine parliamentarian is answering her correspondence, not on House of Commons notepaper, a free perquisite of M.P.'s but on smart gray letterpaper which bears a picture of the Trail of '98, the head of a northern husky and is footed with pictures of Lake Atlin and other Yukon scenes.

Mrs. Black

TRAIL OF '98

Mrs. Black passed over the Trail of '98 in the famous gold rush, and since then has lived and breathed air of the Yukon. Her letter paper intimates she is M.P. for Yukon, even if Yukon scenes are insufficient.

By a quaint turn of the wheel Mrs. Black is occupying the office which from 1921 to his recent double defeat was the office of William Irvine. It lies on the sixth floor immediately opposite the office of Miss Agnes MacPhail.

Mrs. Black has accorded herself as an Independent Conservative, and her office is not in Conservative corridor. Seats in the house have not yet been alloted but expectation is that she will be outside the edge of the Conservative bloc on the dividing line with people next door.

DAILY COMMUNICATION

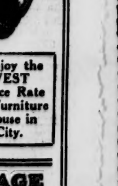

The new member for the Yukon is in daily communication with her riding, and parliament will find her asking for the floor at not infrequent intervals.

It is nearly fifteen years since Miss MacPhail moved into the office across the hall, the only woman member of parliament in Canada. Her hair was black as jet then, and her nervousness was intense as she faced a hostile commons which resented her presence. Miss MacPhail won her spurs and during the years the parliamentary respect of both sides of the green chamber.

Mrs. Black enters parliament under kindlier auspices. As wife of the former speaker, and his hostess, she reached a pinnacle of popularity to which she has hardly risen from the time she first went to Ottawa with Captain Black in 1921, the same year as Miss MacPhail entered parliament. The two ladies across the hall have therefore been in Ottawa for the same number of sessions.

U. S. CONGRESS HAS PEEK INTO PAY ENVELOPES

More Than 18,000 Persons Listed as Receiving More Than $15,000 Annually.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The United States congress took a peek into the pay envelopes of leading money-makers Tuesday and discovered that annual salaries of $100,000 are not rarities.

Under the 1934 Revenue Act, corporations filed with the treasury department for transmission to congress the names and salaries of persons receiving more than $15,000 annually. More than 18,000 individuals were listed by some 8,000 corporations in the report for 1934.

MAE WEST NEAR TOP

Business men, in many instances, were forced to give way to actors in the matter of salaries. Mae West's $339,166.65 from Paramount Pictures was among the top payments.

William Randolph Hearst paid himself a yearly salary of $500,000 as the head of his wide-spread enterprises. Morrill Goddard, editor of Hearst's American Weekly, receives $161,222 annually.

Frank Knox, president of the Chicago Daily News and Republican presidential possibility, received $75,000 salary of the United States president.

UTILITY EMPIRE

Henry L. Doherty, president of H. L. Doherty, Inc., the utility empire, drew $100,000.

Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Co., receives $80,036. P. M. E. Martin, a vice president, $107,341, and Charles Sorensen, general superintendent of the Ford Company, $103,435.

Bing Crosby, Inc., Ltd., paid Bing Crosby, the crooner and actor, $104,499 a year. Crosby drew an additional $88,499 from the Crosby Productions, Inc. Other Hollywood salaries included: Gary Cooper, $139,667; Marlene Dietrich, $145,000; Cecile De Mille, producer, $125,000; W. C. Fields, $155,083; William Le Baron, $114,711; Wesley Ruggles, director, $139,510; B. P. Schulberg, producer, $145,583; Sylvia Sidney, $110,583 and Norman Taurog, director, $118,750.

Their own producing companies paid Constance Bennett $176,188; Charles Chaplin, $143,000 and Walt Disney, $51,500.

SOCIAL CREDIT M.P.'S TO PLAN PLATFORM HERE

Will in no Sense be Working Under Aberhart Blackmore Says

Welcomed by Premier William Aberhart, the Social Credit members of parliament for Alberta and Saskatchewan met in caucus at the legislative buildings on Wednesday, under the chairmanship of J. H. Blackmore, Lethbridge, house leader. P. J. Rowe, M.P. for Athabasca and deputy house leader, is assisting Mr. Blackmore.

There are 15 Social Credit members of parliament for Alberta and two from Saskatchewan.

Prior to the caucus getting under way, Mr. Blackmore called on Premier Aberhart at his office and latter's secretary attended the caucus to offer his best wishes.

He stated he would not spend much time at the deliberations, having a great deal of his own work to do and not desiring to interfere with the caucus conducting its own business.

The main purpose of the caucus is to discuss the stand to be taken by the group at the coming session of parliament, which opens on Feb. 6.

One of the most important decisions undoubtedly will be whether the Social Credit party should place, or attempt to place its social theories before parliament in full dress debate.

Ottawa reports indicated that Mr. Blackmore already has submitted a resolution to this effect, but Mr. Blackmore has denied this, stating that he had no authority from his followers to do so.

However, this is undoubtedly one of the major questions to be decided.

During the day the caucus probably will be visited by cabinet ministers.

FOR PLATFORM

A complete platform outlining policies to be followed by the 17 Social Credit members in the House of Commons will be drafted at Edmonton Wednesday and Thursday, John H. Blackmore, group leader, said in Calgary last night.

Monetary, unemployment, refunding, housing, foreign trade, tariffs, and internal and international relations polities will be set at the group's first caucus, Mr. Blackmore, stated.

"We have no intention of going down to Ottawa, like many people believed, without any definite platform," the member for Lethbridge declared.

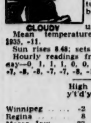

Venue of the caucus was set at Edmonton so that Premier Aberhart of Alberta could be called into sessions in an advisory capacity. Mr. Blackmore asserted that while the members would be working with Mr. Aberhart, they would in no sense be working under Mr. Aberhart.

Government Wages War On Crossings

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—Waging war on railway level crossings, which have been taking an increasing annual toll of human lives, a total of $1,400,000 approximately was committed in 1935 for remedial works across Canada, it was estimated today. The sum represents an increase of about $500,000 over 1934 commitments.

Twenty-five per cent of the $1,400,000 has been actually expended. The balance will be spent in 1936 as work on the authorized projects is carried out.

ENGINEER, 2 FIREMEN DIE TRAIN WRECK

Woman Passenger Suffers Cuts as Head-on Collision Occurs

LOWELLTOWN, Me., Jan. 8.—A locomotive engineer and two firemen were killed on duty near here Tuesday in a collision between a mixed train from Megantic, Que., and an extra westbound freight train, both operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway. A woman passenger suffered cuts on her nose, a C.P.R. employee was badly shaken and the engineer of the freight train was injured, but not critically.

The dead:

Stanley Robinson, engineer of the mixed train;

E. O. Webster, fireman of the mixed train;

T. W. Golding, fireman of the freight train. The three men lived at Brownville, Me.

The injured are: Mrs. J. Vineaus of Megantic, Que., Engineer William R. Harris and Frank T. Love, an employee in the paymastery office at head office of the C.P.R. in Montreal.

Lowelltown is a small community near the Canadian-United States border and about 100 miles from Megantic.

The collision was between the extra westbound freight and the mixed train which runs daily between Megantic and Brownville. Both engines were derailed and toppled over on their sides. Three freight cars were wrecked.

ETHIOPIANS CHEERED BY HEAVY RAINS

ADDIS ABABA, Jan. 8.—Continuous heavy rains in the north cheered the Ethiopian people Tuesday as they celebrated their Christmas.

Natives were confident the rains, bogging up the soil, would compel the Italian invaders to fall back from their advanced positions about Makale.

The day is known as "Ganna" by the Ethiopians. An Imperial service was held in the little church at St. Gobriel's in the lower palace compound.

Crown Prince Asfa Wosan represented his father, Emperor Haile Selassie, at the service—which lasted for five hours. The Emperor attended services at his field headquarters at Desye.

BELGIAN KING RETURNS HOME

OSTEND, Belgium, Jan. 8.—King Leopold, of the Belgians, returned to his own country last night, concluding a visit in the United Kingdom.

There were reports that he had discussed the situation in Ethiopia with King George in the course of his visit and had urged the British sovereign to exert his influence to bring about peace between Italy and Ethiopia. No confirmation of the reports was forthcoming.

King Leopold, who was greeted warmly by a crowd at the dock here, left immediately for Brussels.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 8.—King Leopold II, who returned to the capital of Belgium last night from London, again will go to England shortly for a 10-day vacation in Sussex. He will be the guest there of a former schoolmate at Eton.

POLICE PROBE STERILIZATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Police began an investigation last night of 21-year-old Ann Cooper Hewitt's assertion that she was sterilized as part of a bizarre scheme by her mother to gain full control of a $10,000,000 trust fund.

Coincident with the police announcement Aaron Sapiro, attorney for the socially prominent mother, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter, said the surgery was "for society's sake." He said evidence to show the "erotic tendencies" of the young heiress would be offered.

Mrs. McCarter's attorney said the operation was performed "for Ann's sake" too. The two surgeons who operated said a specialist had advised them the girl was "feebleminded."

How I Keep My Figure

By MYRNA LOY

Myrna Loy

I HAVE never been on a diet in my life. I have never found it necessary, as my figure always stays the same. Nothing that I eat seems to change it.

I do not think that this is a result of a combination of exercises that I take for enjoyment and naturally not having a very large appetite. I eat everything, including sweets and desserts, but never eat a very large meal. If I eat very much I feel stuffy.

Dancing is one of my favorite pastimes, and walking. I do neither of them with the thought of keeping my figure, but because I enjoy them. I live in the hills, and often go for long walks in the morning before I leave for the studio, and do the same thing practically every night when I get home. I also ride horseback quite a bit.

These things, in my opinion, help to keep a person generally fit.

I always try to get at least eight hours of sleep, and think that this is very necessary for any person's well being.

Fruits and vegetables are an important part of my menus, just because they are the things that I like. I do not eat a great deal of meat.

PLOT AGAINST G. G. M'GEER'S LIFE REVEALED

Man Slain Last Sunday by Police Suspected of Being Involved

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8—A bomb plot against the life of Mayor McGeer of Vancouver early last year, in which Carl Thomas, slain last Sunday in a police trap in Seattle, was suspected of being involved, was disclosed Tuesday by Chief of Police W. W. Foster.

Discovery of the plot led to a 24-hour guard being placed on the mayor and resulted in the arrest of two of the four men said to have entered the conspiracy. The arrested pair were convicted and sentenced to penitentiary.

PLOTTED TO BOMB MAYOR

Chief Foster stated information reached police last February that four men were plotting to bomb the mayor who had been been in office less than two months and was conducting a drive against crime and vice conditions in Vancouver.

Police raided a west end apartment, seized a quantity of explosives and arrested one man who was subsequently convicted of unlawful possession. A few days later another west end premises was raided, another arrest made and 40 ounces of explosives were seized.

SECOND MAN CONVICTED

The second men was also convicted of unlawful possession.

Thomas, Chief Foster said, was suspected of providing the explosives to the men involved in the conspiracy.

Prior to discovery of the bomb plot, the mayor had received a number of threatening letters.

YOUNG PETER HEPBURN ALL GUMMED UP

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The story of young Peter Hepburn's encounter with a package of chewing gum reached here Tuesday from Miami where Premier Hepburn and his wife and son spent a holiday. The premier had to rush the two-and-a-half-year-old boy to a hospital to have the gum removed from eyes, ears and hair.

The Hepburns and Mary O'Connor, daughter of Senator Frank P. O'Connor of Toronto, took little Peter to a movie, attempting to buy his silence and good behaviour with a package of gum. He put it all in his mouth at once according to word received here, and transferred half to his ear when he found it to big a mouthful. He drew his hand from his ear across his eyes and got his eyelids firmly stuck. That led to further complications. Premier Hepburn hurried down the aisle to the door and rushed him to the hospital in a taxi.

Police Dog Halts Would-Be Burglar

A burglar who went hunting for health food when he tried to break into the Canada Fruit Co. store on Jasper at 105 street early Wednesday morning, was stopped short when a police dog, on watch inside, menaced him. After opening the storm door and forcing the inner door he decided his health might be impaired if he went further.

"DISARMING" AS USUAL

The naval conference is resuming debates in London. The news will serve mainly to remind readers that the conference only adjourned for the holidays, and for safety sake; it did not really "blow up." They may regret that before it is over.

Agreement is said to have been reached during the recess on some "formula" or other as to how much and how fast the powers are to build. The taxpayers of the "big five" will know in due time how much they are to have to provide for new warships in the next five or ten years.

And the people of all other countries—Canada included—will be able to start figuring how much they will have to spend to keep somewhere in relation to the new scale of sea armament.

As to disarmament, or armament reduction, the prospect of that faded out when the delegates assembled.

SPEAKING IN "RESERVE"

Newspapers published in Rome, which tell the people of Italy what their positive-minded Premier thinks about things, are deeply interested in President Roosevelt's message to Congress.

They refer to it as a "sermon, which cannot halt the Italians in Africa," call the President "dictatorial," and tell him that Italians ever terminated the Indians but do not know how to deal with gangsters—whatever that may imply.

One even goes so far as to suggest European intervention in the affairs of the Americas, in retaliation for "American intervention in European and League affairs."

The newspapers in Rome evidently think they know one country which cannot but "fit the shoe to its foot." They have no hesitation in admitting the language of the message is recognized as applicable to the Italian operations in Africa.

Conning their remarks, Mr. Roosevelt will note with interest that the propaganda directorate in Rome admonishes all persons in Italy to maintain "The most absolute reserve as to the international situation." Plainly in the Rome newspapermen ever slipped the bonds and let themselves go they would make literature.

OFFICIAL SABOTAGE ILLEGAL

Curtailing the production of farm crops and animals is not a proper function of the Government of the United States, according to the Supreme Court.

The framers of the constitution, it appears, did not understand modern economics. They made no provision for checking the output of wealth. Possibly because they did not see much wealth in their day, never heard about surpluses, and could not imagine that a time would come when millions should be in want because there was so much food and other necessities in the land.

Or maybe they thought moderns would have sense enough to adjust their monetary systems and economic machinery to accommodate an age of plenty—if so somebody of today should come along; and that if they didn't do so they would just have to pay the penalty.

Rejection of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, with all that may follow in legislation, political reactions and coalitions, directly concerns only the people of the United States.

But the blow thus given to the theory that prosperity is to be attained and maintained by curtailing the production of wealth is of interest to people in other countries—Canadians in particular, since we have been advised to also seek happiness by the creation of artificial scarcity.

In so far as it is not purely legalistic, the verdict of the Court is that a nation now should work out some way by which it can live in an age of plenty—rather than abolish the plenty that it may live meanly.

ASSINIBOIA

Hon. J. G. Gardiner was elected by a two-to-one majority in Assiniboia, where blizzard conditions permitted only two-thirds as many voters to get to the polls as turned out at the general elections in October.

The return of a newly chosen Minister seeking parliamentary standing at a by-election is usually a matter of little significance, beyond the desire of the electors to be represented by a member of the cabinet rather than by a member of the opposition. But one or two features gave the Assiniboia contest an interest and a meaning other than local.

The main issue was the wheat-selling policy of the King Government. Mr. Irvine extolled the beauties and benefits of the wheat-holding idea as preached by the late Government and practised by its wheat board. The farmers in the wheat belt, it is to be gathered, have seen all those beauties and experienced all those benefits they care for or can afford. They voted to sell wheat, not to keep it.

The second interesting feature was that Mr. Perley, the one Conservative member returned in the province at the general elections, went into the constituency and campaigned on behalf of the C.C.F. candidate. A return kindness apparently for the assistance of Mr. Irvine and his associates in helping to put over the privately-owned Central Bank scheme, and otherwise giving aid and comfort to Mr. Bennett when supposedly independent support was desirable for its psychological effect.

The "psychological effect" of this association of extremes in Assiniboia seems to have been different than intended, but quite marked.

Poems That Live

TEARS

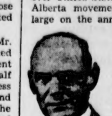

When I consider Life and its few years—
A wisp of fog betwixt us and the sun;
A call to battle, and the battle done
Ere the last echo dies within our ears;
A rose choked in the grass; an hour of fears;
The gusts that past a darkening shore do beat;
The burst of music down an unlistening street—
I wonder at the idleness of tears.
Ye, old, old dead, and ye of yesternight,
Chieftains, and bards, and keepers of the sheep,
By every cup of sorrow that you had,
Loose me from tears, and make me see aright
How each hath back what once he stayed to weep;
Homer his sight, David his little lad!

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

The amazing response of the electors of Alberta last August to the promise of $25 a month may be duplicated on a larger scale all over United States before the year is out. The Alberta movement which has writ its name large on the annals of this province, sent an almost-solid delegation to Ottawa and given the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street a good shaking, has galvanized the political hopes of a more sweeping movement in United States—the Townsend Old Age Pension Plan to give every person over the age of sixty a pension of $200 a month without regard to need or financial position. The only obligation will be that the beneficiary must spend the whole of the $200 within thirty days after receiving it.

J. S. Cowper

Both in its wide appeal and in the theory of its economic foundation the Townsend Plan bears close resemblance to Alberta Social Credit. It is predicated on the theory that if money is spent fast enough it comes back again into the Treasury for re-use as spending power, like the well-known illustration of the blood-stream Albertans are familiar with. Like the Social Credit dividends we are all to get from the provincial government, the money is to be raised by levies. Dr. Townsend, whose name has been given to the plan, calculates that a 2 per cent tax on all the purchases made in United States will raise the needed $24,000,000,000 a year to put the plan into operation.

Last week, President Roosevelt used the opening of Congress and a nation-wide broadcasting hook-up, as a means of getting in a campaign speech ahead of the opening of his campaign for, re-election. There is no political opponent in the field, nor has one yet been named that the United States president need fear. The adversary he most likely fears, and whom he is trying to steal a march on, is Dr. Francis E. Townsend, whose hold on the affections of the 10,000,000 men and women in United States over sixty years of age—and of the millions of younger folk anxious to see their aged parents provided for by the State—is similar in hope and fervency to that of the 163,700 people who voted for $25 a month in Alberta last August.

So radical and well-informed a journal as The Nation, expresses the opinion that the Townsend party will enter the U.S. elections with the biggest campaign fund of all the parties.

The profits of the Townsend Weekly, averaging $2000 a week, are said to be split between Mr. R. E. Clements, originator of the scheme, and Dr. Townsend, who put it across. Fees for platform engagements, running from $150 to $400 a night, also go to Dr. Townsend. But there are other large sources of money for campaign purposes.

Dues for the 50,000 members of the Townsend National Legion at $1 a month, come to $600,000 a year. Dues of the 7,000 Townsend Clubs—estimated at 3,000,000—are expected to pay ten cents a month each. If only one-half of the membership pays, this amounts to $1,800,000 a year. There are profits from the sales of banners, buttons and busts of Dr. Townsend; profits from posters, pamphlets, tire covers, picnic funds and organized collections. In the smaller communities, merchants are virtually coerced into contributing to the Townsend Plan.

Calculating on a minimum of 10,000 members, able to send a contribution of $25, Dr. George W. Bunton of the Townsend National Legion, has opened a fund to raise $250,000 in this fashion. With the promise of $2400 a year for doing nothing but merely spending it, the invitation looks like a good bet. Many of the politicians on the Townsend ticket, says R. L. Neuberger in "The Nation" have adopted the battle slogan "Vote for me and get your $200 in the next mail!" Millions of voters are marching on to the Townsend battle song:

"The Townsend Plan, my neighbor, will set the country free
From the thraldom of depression and the scourge of poverty."

Small wonder that Franklin Roosevelt's shrewd advisers, seeing the millions of dollars being raised, and the enthusiasm and hopes engendered in millions of voters promised $200 a month for doing nothing, fear a Townsend landslide in United States similar to, but on a larger scale than, the Social Credit landslide in Alberta last August.

Other ingenious economists are following up the Townsend success by evolving variations of the Townsend economic system.

One of the most ingenious is being broadcast by radio from Battle Creek, Michigan (where the breakfast foods come from). It is called the "Retire At Birth Plan."

Briefly the plan is as follows: On the birth of each child in United States, the parents will receive from the U.S. Treasury a 20-year-note for $20,000. The principal will be payable to the child on attaining the age of twenty. During the twenty years of its upbringing, interest at the rate of 3 per cent would be payable monthly to the parents. This would provide the parents with an income of $50 per month for each child they raise.

If at twenty, a boy and girl decide to marry and go into the procreation business, by pooling their capital they would have $40,000 to start life on. With that, and the $50 a month for each child, they need never work at anything else.

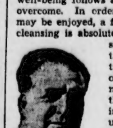

How would the Treasury raise the money? It would pay from revenue or by issues of national credit, the $600 per year interest for each child, and in addition set aside by way of sinking fund $1000 a year for each child. This, it is argued, would cost the state only $1600 per year per beneficiary, instead of $2400 per year per beneficiary under the Townsend Plan.

Whether the originator of the "Retire At Birth Plan" is a humorist, a lunatic or a genius is not made clear. If it will work many of us will regret that we were born ahead of the "Retire At Birth" plan.

Sluggish Intestinal Elimination

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

When intestinal sluggishness has persisted for some time, an immediate improvement in well-being follows as soon as this symptom is overcome. In order that the greatest health may be enjoyed, a full and complete intestinal cleansing is absolutely necessary. Although a sluggish intestinal elimination is very common, fortunately, it may be entirely overcome in the great majority of cases. Even in those cases where the elimination has been slow and unsatisfactory for a considerable period of time, complete relief is often secured within a month or two.

Dr. F. McCoy

There are all grades and varieties of constipation and due to the many variations which may occur, it is difficult to outline a definition of this symptom which will fit all cases. However, constipation may be defined as a delay in the emptying of waste from the large intestine. The elimination is not as complete as it should be, or is frequent and irregular. In normal health, two or three movements should occur each day and this desirable elimination is readily accomplished at a regular time without any thought being given to it. There is a complete absence of anxiety about the matter and the colon cleanses itself thoroughly and in a satisfactory manner. When this normal routine is interfered with, the patient then develops associated symptoms which cause physical distress and is also likely to develop mental anxiety. He feels that an important rule of health has not been attended to, and worry over the delay induces a mental discomfort.

Constipation has been rightly called "the mother of disease" and certainly, we can not get very far away from the fact that as a symtom, it is found to accompany almost any disease state. Also, we must admit that one of the first rules of health is to keep the colon clean.

Constipation is not of itself a disease, but only a symptom. However, the importance of that symptom is not to be overlooked. It should be regarded as a symptom which indicates some disturbance of normal function and that disturbance may be caused by either functional or organic disorders. When functional in origin, sluggish elimination merely means that for some reason, the colon is unable to do its work in a normal way. The cause is functional in a high percentage of cases, and in such cases, it is comparatively easy to re-establish normal functioning and to return the colon to the state where it does its work completely and thoroughly.

Many other symptoms may be associated with constipation. The other symptoms commonly mentioned by the patient who is seeking relief, are: a feeling of fullness or distention; intestinal gas; chronic tiredness; headache; mental depression; and perhaps a slight dizziness. The tongue is coated, the skin muddy in appearance, and the patient says he does not think as clessly as usual. In some cases, the residue is hard and dry which may cause strain when attempting to relieve the colon of it. The appetite may be poor. There undoubtedly exists in the mind of the patient a strong suggestion that the system is being poisoned by the retention of wastes which should have been gotten rid of, and this may cause considerable worry. As soon as the colon is emptied in a thorough manner by one means or another, even if that relief is only temporary, the patient finds that his symptoms rapidly leave, and also notes an increase in physical well-being, together with a return to a happier mental outlook.

Unquestionably, the patient who is constipated is a patient looking for relief. He feels very strongly that action of some kind is necessary and this feeling may cause him to take laxatives, purgatives or cathartics, or to the use of bulk increasers, intestinal lubricants, or the enema. The patient wants relief and the many remedies offered at the present time have been devised to satisfy that want.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: J. L. T. inquires: "Does beeming very much have any effect on digestion?"

Yesterday, I was very angry and when I ate dinner, I found my digestion very much disturbed."

ANSWER: It is well established that anger has a direct effect in slowing up digestion. Probably the effect of this emotion is brought about by a stimulation of the adrenal glands which stimulation causes an inhibition of the processes of digestion. Destructive emotions including anger, rage, are an important factor in the development of acute indigestion. The patient who is in a chronic state of suppressed anger often develops chronic digestive disturbances. It is advisable to omit the meal immediately following an emotional upset. Certainly, the patient who has undergone any violent emotional explosion is in no condition to digest food for several hours.

QUESTION: Harvey G. asks: "For what reason is one advised to cook all pork thoroughly?"

ANSWER: When pork has been infested with trichina spirals, the human being eating that meat may develop trichinosis. By cooking all pork thoroughly, the danger of this parasitic infection is entirely avoided.

QUESTION: Dee. G. wants to know: "What is bronchitis, also bronchial asthma? One doctor says I have the first, another doctor says the second."

ANSWER: Bronchitis refers to an inflammation of the bronchial tubes; bronchial asthma is marked by attacks of difficult breathing, with wheezing cough, and a sense of constriction due to spasmodic contraction of the bronchi. The symptoms of bronchial asthma may closely resemble those of bronchitis. Only a very careful examination would disclose which is actually present in your case.

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1829 a school was opened at York (Toronto) on the advice of Sir John Colborne, which developed into Upper Canada College. Now 107 years old, it is still turning out pupils to adorn the public life of Canada as it has done all through the century and more. Among the famous men who were pupils of Upper Canada were, Hon. Edward Blake; Sir James Aikins, a lieutenant governor of Manitoba; Sir John Hendrie, a lieutenant governor of Ontario; General Sir William D. Otter, the famous Denison brothers, George, Septimus and Clarence; John A. Barron, once M.P. and judge; John Ross Robertson, founder of the Sick Children's hospital, Toronto; Sir Frederic Stupart ("Old Probs"); Sir George McLaren Brown, of the C.P.R.; Sir E. W. Grier, the artist; Hal. McGiverin, of Ottawa; W. B. Northrup, clerk of the House of Commons; Stephen Leacock, the humorist, who can soon devote all his time to amusing the public instead of wrestling with youthful aspirants for knowledge; Sir Henry Pellatt; John S. Ewart, K.C., the great constitutional authority; Hayter Reid, and many others whose names have escaped me. Upper Canada is the sole representative in Canada of the "public school" as they have them in England, and its old boys are never at a loss to sound the praises of the old school.

Refund Western Debts

In the last few years we have referred, in these columns, several times to the way the finances of the country were being carried on. During this period Canada has not been financed in the interests of the people as a whole, and certainly not in the interests of the taxpayer. Take the position of our western towns and provinces. The overwhelming debt load they are carrying at the present time is beyond their capacity to pay, and they have been continually coming to Ottawa for money to meet their interest bills, although the Federal Government has no legal responsibility in the matter. The facts are, a considerable portion of our western country has been finding it difficult to dig up new assets to pin an interest tag on, their equities being pretty well covered. In these circumstances, they find it rather hard to even pyramid debt by reborrowing to pay the interest on old loans.

Now, Ottawa does not manufacture money. The revenues at Ottawa have to come out of the pockets of the people by way of taxes, and fortunately the eastern provinces have still a margin of assets that are not yet covered by an interest tag. They still have equities, and what goes on behind the scenes is simply that when Ottawa loans the west a hundred million dollars, that load has to be carried to a great extent by the eastern provinces. It is just a case of transfer, and this is a very poor system of finance.

We do not blame the western provinces. We have every sympathy with them, as they are surrounded with economic conditions beyond their control, and are deserving of real help. Long ago they should have been given a refunding plan, whereas their debts could be all refunded at a lower interest rate, but the initiative regarding such a plan has to be taken at Ottawa. It is not practical for any province or city to refund individually. For Ottawa to be simply handing out loans, it is just following a blind alley. A constructive refunding plan for our western country should have been worked out two or three years ago. If it had been, there would not be a three-hundred million dollar overdraft at Ottawa today, and with the co-operation of Ottawa, in the changed circumstances, of our Western Provinces could have been brought into balance.

There are Western Provincial bonds out today, with a coupon rate anywhere from 5 to 6½ per cent, whereas money, in the markets of the world, is not worth half this amount. The gamblers and speculators are getting it for less than one percent. Why legitimate business and our provinces continue to pay an exhorbitant rate is certainly either the fault of a poor system or poor planning, and the time for a right-about-face in our financial thinking is long overdue.—Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Mail Bag

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

Editor, Bulletin: Re juvenile delinquency; strange such a problem wasn't ever with years ago! I, as a young child, could have told the world most of what it is now finding out on such a question, but it wouldn't have listened to me! Don't we know, without being told, that proper instruction and example in Christianity is the only sure guidance? Furthermore, of course the mind of anyone needs employment in what is interesting to it. Christian teaching, and scope for healthy and enjoyable mental and physical activity, are the things needed (and I suppose, to have a good aim in life would be a good addition to these). Without Christian teaching a child doesn't see why it should love its neighbor as itself (and to do so is the basis of treating the neighbors properly).

Also, an obstinate child is not converted in heart by brutality (nor should we adults be, for it is human nature to rebel against outrage), so let us use understanding kindness, also thereby showing children we really actually have a little intellect.

And may I say here that I hope our intellect won't be too long in carrying us to a point where we will put all criminals in home-like hospitals, instead of jails, and give them kind, and psychiatric treatment. It must be that many, if not most, never had Christian teaching or example in childhood. If we have brains, let's be merciful.

Reverting to former subject, wish to say surely we don't expect anyone to behave on regulations only, or a list of "Don'ts." Without scope for pleasurable activity of some forms some kind of calamity must result, sooner or later.

I understand the main juvenile crime is theft. I do not read a lot, but noted that certain people would like to legalize the killing of incurables. Which is the worst crime, to steal from humans, or to kill them? What do we expect our young peoples' minds to be like with such examples from adults, and, as I read, a bishop in the number?

Great Britain Abolishes Imprisonment For Debt

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

Most people think that with the pulling down of Debtors' Prisons there was a wiping out of imprisonment for debt; but all through the intervening years people who did not pay their rates, or pay fines, or pay affiliation orders for support of children were sent to prison; and not having the money was no excuse. They were locked up on the apparent theory that their fate would have a tonic effect, so that people would make every effort to pay in order to avoid getting behind the bars.

This policy has been reversed by the Money Payment Act, 1935; and now before anyone can be sent to prison for any of these public and semi-public debts it must, in effect, be proved that the debtor can get the money to pay but will not pay.

The Jusices of the Peace must hold an inquiry as to moneys available; such inquiry to be held in Court in the presence of the debtor. Should the Justices be of opinion that the failure of the debtor to pay was not due to wilful refusal or culpable neglect, the debtor shall not be sent to prison.

Provisions are made for keeping the earnings of such a debtor under supervision; and for assisting him to pay by instalments; and in cases of infirmity and absolute inability to get money, to wipe out the debt.

Several thousand people will be freed from the daily peril of going behind the bars owing to lack of money. Even clergymen have been given prison accommodation when collections fell off. Now a supervisor will keep an eye on the plate and find out whether the excuse of no money is true.

The demolishing of the last mode of arbitrary imprisonment for debt in Great Britain, is one of the smaller beacon lights of history making the years 1935-36 memorable.

EGYPT SEIZES ON BRITAIN'S TROUBLE TO FOMENT REVOLT

same spirit which has caused Britain to intercede in behalf of Ethiopia.

In the first place the Egyptians tell you that they are not British subjects, and further that they have no desire that their country should ever become a member of the British Empire. They resent the humiliation of being called an independent people whilst a British high-commissioner lalls around the city with the power to suspend the Egyptian constitution when ever he deems this opportune in the interest of . . . Britain.

And so the fire smoulders. The French national anthem speaks of "the day of glory" that has arrived. The hymn dates from the time when the heads of aristocrats plumped into the sawdust basket on the Place de la Concorde. "Le jour de glorie" broke the power of feudalism. Millions of hotblooded fanatical, fighting-eyed Egyptian nationalists believe that their "day of glory" is about to dawn.

They know Great Britain to be in difficulties over the Abyssinian question. They want to take advantage of the African embroglio to shake off the hated hand of England and gain full independence.

They do not shrink back if the attempt to achieve national freedom should cost torrents of blood. Precious is the blood of martyrs. Unlimited are the sacrifices to which men will consent for freedom's sake. There are no limits to the young men in Egypt who will gladly give their lives for the national cause.

NOT ITALIAN PROPAGANDA

It is utterly foolish to say that the wave of nationalist feeling in Egypt is the outcome of Italian propaganda. There are indeed 250,000 Italians in the kingdom of the Nile and the majority of these are grouped in fascist clubs. It is undoubtedly also true that King Fuad is a personal friend of the Duce and of the Italian sovereign.

But Egyptian national aspirations exist entirely independent of Italian influences. It stands to reason however, that Italy is not ill-pleased with the outbreaks in Egypt in so far as those embarrass Great Britain, but Italian propaganda did not provoke them.

I asked the editor of Al-Ahram, one of the great nationalist dailies in Cairo, who came to see me at the hotel where I was ill, if he and his nationalist friends would go so far as to accept Italian tutelage instead of British and he replied: "We recognize that British tutelage is the lightest yoke, but it is foreign. It is alien. We would like to be the friends and allies of Great Britain, but not a subject-race. We want to be the friends and allies of Britain by our own free will, that is to say as a sovereign people deciding on every detail of our own destiny, not as compulsory frail-bearers of the British empire.

OBJECT TO BRITISH DOMINATION

"We recognize," he went on, "the paramount importance of the Suez Canal in British inter-imperial communications. We would like to come to an honorable arrangement with Britain on the subject of the canal, but we do not admit that the whole Egyptian nation should be kept indefinitely under British domination just because the canal happens to pass through our territory."

"I dare say," I replied, "that most liberal persons in England and in the British Empire will agree with you, although liberals outside England in the British Empire have nothing to decree, nor to advise in the matter. England handles such things alone, without consulting the Empire. But do you not think that the moment is ill-chosen to unleash your nationalistic campaign. Why do you select a time when England is in trouble? Why do you not wait till peace has been restored in Africa to ask London to reconsider the whole question of Egypt's status? With your present course of action you create resentment and run the risk of meeting a much harder England, far less pliable in international circumstances."

WAITED UNTIL BRITAIN IN TROUBLE

"We have asked so often," said the Egyptian nationalist leader. "It avails us nothing. The British are deaf on that side. We see no other way out but to press our cause when Britain is at a disadvantage, or in trouble as she is now."

"You are repeating the error of Sir Roger Casement and Mr. de Valera in 1916, who agitated for Irish independence while—"

"Pardon me," interrupted my caller, "there is no analogy. The Irish were members of the British Empire. King George was sovereign of Ireland. We have no British ruler. We are not traitors or trial-content citizens of the British Empire. We are Egyptians, that is members of a supposedly sovereign state."

"Well, why do you not seize world-opinion through the League of Nations, for instance?" I said.

"That is what we would like to do, but Britain will not permit us to join the league or make representations at Geneva. Anything Eypt desires to propose at Geneva must be presented through the British diplomatic representation. So far all our requests have been turned down."

"And now you have decided to fight it out, by force of arms if needs be?" I queried.

"Ultimately we will fight. That is certain," nodded the nationalist chief in assent.

"SHOULD BE IN LEAGUE"

"I hope it will not be necessary," he said. "Violence is a very uncivilized procedure and unworthy of the high cultural standing of Egypt. Our country is without question the most advanced of all Islamic countries. Why shed blood. Take an example of Canada. We are almost completely independent, but our independence is not the result of a violent wrench. It is the result of a slow process. Britain does not give in to force. Only in the face of a ripening democracy, she will not refuse an ever wider measure of autonomy."

"You admit that Egypt is of high cultural standing," he came back. "Yet do you realize that countries like Afghanistan, Irak and Ethiopia are members of the League? Then why not Egypt? Don't you see that we cannot be humiliated forever?"

"Perhaps it is certain," I replied, "But you must go about acquiring it in a different manner. King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who have so nobly and unanimously interceded on behalf of Ethiopia, did not play into the hands of Ethiopia's enemy in pressing your claims for independence now in a violent way."

"I know," he said. "But how much more effective would our support of Ethiopia be, and of the league, if we were free and could do as we liked? We are tired of waiting for England's benevolence. We are desperate. We cannot be slaves forever!"

LONE TRAPPER INTERESTED IN WORLD SERIES

QUESNEL, B.C., Jan. 8—When Gene Giddings, old-time prospector and trapper, returned to Barkerville after about three months' trapping in the Stoney Lake area of British Columbia, he evinced little concern over the war in Ethiopia, but he did want to know, "who won the world's series?"

For 22 weeks during which he saw no one except his young partner, Eric Wolterten, that was the burning question on his mind.

"Just the way I had it figured out," he declared when he met the Detroit Tigers won.

With their catch—12 marten, two mink, eight fisher, one lynx, 109 weasel, one coyote and four skunk — on their backs, the partners had hiked 24 miles over an unbroken trail in one day.

Commenting on the mild season the trappers said grizzly bear had not denned up until Dec. 10, at least a month later than usual.

Crippled Steamer Limps Into Port

HALIFAX, Jan. 8—Battered by heavy seas for more than three weeks, the 3,100-ton Norwegian freighter Olga Selmers limped into port here Tuesday from Rotterdam.

In command of Captain L. Burmeister, the Olga Selmers sailed from Rotterdam Dec. 13 for Boston but she was forced into Halifax today having used almost all her fuel battling fierce storms which raged on the Atlantic almost continuously during the 25-day crossing.

MAKE TENANT ALSO LIABLE BUSINESS TAX

Will be Equally Responsible With Owner if Amendment Approved

Any tenant renting or leasing business premises will be as much liable as the owner for payment to the City of business tax on such premises if a charter amendment sought by the city is approved by the provincial legislature at its forthcoming session.

City Solicitor Thomas Garside has prepared 22 amendments to Edmonton's charter which will be placed before the city commissioners (bylaws) committee and city council before being submitted to the legislature for its approval.

RIGHT TO SEIZE

Wording of the proposed amendment dealing with business tax follows: "(a) That the person holding as tenant direct from owner, premises used for business purposes shall be responsible for business tax payable in respect of whole of premises so held as tenant notwithstanding that the same shall subsequently be sublet by such person; and (b) providing for the right to seize any personal property owned by person conducting business or used in connection with the operation of such business to enforce payment of business tax."

Another amendment would give the city the right to offset a debt owed by the city to any person against a debt owed to the city by such person. In this connection, the solicitor explained there had been instances where civic debts, whose deficit the city is liable, had paid out monies to persons owing money to the civic administration. It was pointed out that such bills should not be paid where money was owing the city by the person due to receive payment of the bill from boards or other organizations for whose finances the city is responsible.

Amendments have also been drafted for the tightening up of regulations which require contractors and builders to receive permits from the city before commencing building work; also, giving the city the right to make an annual charge against premises which have marquees overhanging the street, as in the case of the front of the Birks Building on Jasper.

Proposed change in the charter would also govern use of city streets by vehicular traffic and the regulation of parking privileges.

HALIFAX, Jan. 8—Dr. C. B. Weld, assistant professor of physiology at the University of Toronto, has been appointed professor of physiology at Dalhousie University, it was announced here last night. He will succeed Prof. F. W. H. Crandlshank, who recently accepted an appointment in Scotland.

Dr. Weld, a son of Dr. Arcadius Weld of London, Ont., was born in Vancouver 36 years ago. After obtaining his arts degree at the University of British Columbia he studied at Connaught Laboratories, Toronto, and was graduated in medicine from the University of Toronto. Besides lecturing at the university he is physiologist to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

CANCER FUND TRUSTEES TO LAUNCH DRIVE

OTTAWA, Jan. 8.—A Canada-wide educational campaign will be the first step launched by the trustees of the King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer fund, it was announced here last night at the conclusion of a meeting of the trustees. In the larger centres of the Dominion meetings of the public will be addressed and will be held. Assistance in the campaign will be given by the University of Toronto Medical School, whose name for the present the trustees withhold.

The question as to how the fund should be carried was discussed by the trustees today and plans were adopted for the most effective amount of income should accrue from the funds in hand.

The trustees accepted the offer of Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman of Philadelphia, one of the world's outstanding medical statisticians, to spend several weeks in Canada for the purpose of making a statistical study of the incidence of cancer and the factors bearing on such.

MAYOR CALLS ON PREMIER

Paying a call on Premier Aberhart Tuesday afternoon, Mayor J. A. Clarke explained to the premier that the city council committee's proposal that the province assume the whole of Edmonton's direct relief burden will be held in detail with by city council, and therefore could not be passed upon in the light of a definite demand on the province by the city. This recommendation will be considered by council at its regular meeting next Monday.

While at the legislative buildings Mayor Clarke took the opportunity of discussing with Mr. Aberhart several proposed charter amendments which the city will ask the legislature to approve at its forthcoming session.

Peace League Gives Support To Sanctions

In a strong resolution based on two articles from the Covenant of the League of Nations, members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Edmonton branch, expressed at their regular meeting held in the Y.W.C.A. on Monday afternoon their attitude in regard to Canada's position in the application of sanctions against Italy. The resolution, proposed by Mrs. Ray Schurman and seconded by Mrs. C. G. Elliott, is as follows:

"That while the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Edmonton branch, endorses the action of the Canadian government in participating in the application of financial and economic sanctions in the present crisis; it nevertheless recognizes that such action, alone, is inadequate, in that it provides no solution for those underlying maladjustments which have led to the conflict; and it therefore urges the Canadian government to press for such action by the League of Nations under Article 19 of the Covenant, as will progressively ameliorate those territorial and economic conditions throughout the world, which are a major cause of present discontents and which threaten still the drift toward armaments and war."

A comprehensive account of the year's activities was read by Mrs. W. Rowan. The treasurer's report, audited by Mrs. Podersky and Mrs. Martin, and presented by Mrs. Ray Schurman showed a balance on hand. Private membership had increased, and five new affiliations brought the number of these up to 14.

NEW VENTURES

New ventures during the year included the organization of a junior League of Nations Pioneers Society, with headquarters at Calgary; a Peace Shoppe with posters and literature display during peace conference week; and a memorial pageant on Armistice day at the Rialto theatre — "The Unknown Soldier Speaks."

The league took up its usual part in helping to organize the peace conference, which was specially fortunate this year, in having present Miss Mary E. Dingman, president of the Peace and Disarmament Committee at Geneva, who attended all three sessions, and was an inspiring speaker in the evening. Other out-of-town speakers heard during the year included Judge Helen Gregory MacGill of Vancouver, and Mrs. J. Siegal, vice-president of the Women's International League of Toronto.

To continue to direct activities of the Edmonton branch, Mrs. W. A. McConkey was re-elected president. Mrs. McConkey has been president of the W.I.L. since its inception in Edmonton and is one of the staunchest of supporters in all progressive work for peace. Mrs. R. Podersky, second vice-president, Mrs. William Rowan, recording secretary, Mrs. Ray Schurman, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Shortliffe, treasurer.

Famous Artist Sketches His Ideal Type Of Gown

Put a "C.B." on brass buttons and the present military influence in women's dress, is the advice of Mr. Elbert M. Jackson, famous New York artist, who is all for glamour and femininity. Battles were not meant to be fought in the fashion salons, and women have no reason to want to dress like Italian generals or bandmasters. He advises women to dress to suit their personality, never to be bizarre. Titian beauties should choose greens and blues, and accentuate their own lovely coloring. A woman can fall into step with the style mode.

The accompanying sketches by Mr. Jackson were used by him to illustrate a Louis Bromfield novel. "And It All Came True," appearing in a current magazine. They exemplify the type of clothes that he thinks have universal appeal in lines and feeling.

the social round . . . . . .

DON'TS FOR DATERS have been compiled by an ever so eminent authority, and as this is a leap year and we are nothing if not set-on-being-helpful, it seems a proper time to pass the suggestions along—what with opportunity's doors wide open as they are, just one year in every four! Although let it be clearly understood that this is no get-your-man-campaign, to be aided and abetted by the press. However, the most eminent authority seems to think that if you steer clear of the following obvious "faux pas," you will choose the less rocky road to a good time. Here are the "Don'ts," eight of them, to start on:

Don't suggest that the young man come in for a midnight snack if father is a light sleeper. The spectacle of an irate parent clothed in pyjamas and righteous indignation could discourage the most ardent swain.

Don't think it's smart to play bluish. Too many accidents have occurred without any effort and usually overdo it.

Don't ever ask your escort to get a blind date for some girl friend because that has caused more than one Damon-and-Pythias team to split.

Don't go into rave over some other person's new automobile when it happens that the boy friend has one of the ancient vintage.

Don't ask the young man to dine at home with the family because it's something he would terrify him. If you firmly believe the way to a young man's heart is via his tummy, then take him to a restaurant.

Don't take him seriously if he makes a polite but rhetorical inquiry as to where you would like to go—unless he was paid that day.

Don't say yes when you mean no —and vice versa.

Don't buy him neckties or anything else which he can't claim was the wrong size so he had to change it.

Our oracle also suggests a few "Do's", the principle one referring to what every woman knows, that it is a good thing to let the bested beau tell you all about himself as many times and as long as he likes. If you are bored with that, as many times and as long as he likes, you can, as they say, probably "take it".

In the monologue you can look interested and all the time be thinking of the Ethiopian situation, or the new electric worm digger you are going to buy to go fishing next summer and no one will ever guess that you aren't completely absorbed by the masculine career. "This procedure isn't so painful," says the oracle, "since each individual has but one life story to tell, and, barring a repeat performance, each has made an eternal admirer by the sacrifice of one evening."

Tales Of Far Travel Delight "Y" Sorority

On the road to Mandalay . . . or to Bombay, Hawaii, or any of the remote, romantic places of the far east, where the dawn "comes up like thunder," Mrs. Moffatt Clow of Ulster, Ireland, has set her feet, and in a most fascinating lecture to Gamma Pi Beta club of the Y. W. C. A., on Tuesday evening, spoke of her travels to a large audience. As a citizen of the world, Mrs. Clow offered her listeners a complete British Empire tour plus Honolulu, without sea-sickness, discomfort or any kind of financial concern.

The first country visited was India, and in vivid word pictures was seen the colorful panorama of streets and market places. Railway travelling where caste system necessitates separate compartments for each caste, and where men and women could not travel together, were facts of interest.

DELHI'S PILLAR OF FIRE

Mrs. Clow was present at the armistice service in Delhi, and spoke of the pillar of fire by night and smoke by day, which was a most spectacular part of the ceremony. Girl Guides of India dressed in navy blue saries, were part of the parade.

Mrs. Clow also visited Gandhi's home and in that vicinity was surprised to find men and women working together in the cotton mills, their children in a badly kept creche.

Australia presented a vivid contrast to India. With its sunshine and vast spaces it reminded the speaker of Canada. But here again was contrast, for Christmas in Australia meant strawberries and ice cream, roses, and picnics on the beach. And governments in Australia are not loathe to run monthly swagmaked.

New Zealand reminded Mrs. Clow of Scotland and Ireland with its smallness and greenness, and it is the ideal tourist country. Mrs. Clow described the natives as delightful people. New Zealand is 97% British and buys more British goods per head than any other country.

ROAD TO EVERYWHERE

Honolulu, the speaker described as an interesting spot of perfection, as so many nationalities live happily together in Honolulu. Pan Pacific conferences are held there for it is the road to everywhere, a strategic point, besides being a beauty spot that no tourist should miss one of the few countries entirely without fear of Japan, possibly because of the big percentage of Japanese in the population, she stated.

As an ardent temperance and peace worker, Mrs. Clow emphasized to the club the part women must play in world affairs. "Young people of today must realize their potentialities, cultivate the best; be lifters, not leaners," she urged.

Mrs. W. H. Sterne introduced Mrs. Clow, and at the conclusion of her talk a vote of thanks was proposed by Miss Anna Whitla. Mrs. E. P. Wellwood sang two charming numbers accompanied on the piano by Miss Rose Meyers. Members of the Board of Directors, the girls' work and the League are Mrs. Sterne, Cheery Chums club and Gamma club.

GIBBS-LAMPE NUPTIALS ARE OF INTEREST

Of interest in social and university circles is the announcement of the wedding of Mr. Eric Leod Gibbs, son of Mrs. C. Lionel Gibbs of Edmonton and the late Mr. Gibbs and grandson of the late Mr. Justice Scott, of the University of Alberta, and Miss Inez Lampe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lampe of Chicago which took place in Toronto on New Year's Day, Rev. Dr. Salem Bland performed the ceremony.

Mr. Hugh Morrison, a former classmate of Eric Gibbs in University, and who has shared experiences in a journalistic career in eastern Canada, was best man.

Mr. Gibbs graduated from University here, in Arts and later in Law, and since leaving for the east has been engaged in the editorial staff of the Toronto Star. His versatility has made him prominently known in social circles as a clever caricaturist.

The bride, who has conducted marionette shows in Canada and has been seen in performances in Edmonton, is the daughter of Finish parents, who for stage purposes changed her name from Aina Georginia Lampio to Inez Lampe. She is also a talented actress and musician.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs will make their home in Toronto.

Woman Mayor Still Attends To Housework

WEBBWOOD, Ont., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Barbara Hanley, believed to be Canada's first woman mayor, said today this northern town of 350 people was not big enough to necessitate her neglecting her housework just because she was elected as its chief magistrate.

Joseph Hanley, elated at his wife's success, admitted he liked the idea of her running for the office well enough that he went out and worked hard to help elect her at the polls yesterday. Mr. Hanley is employed by the Canadian Pacific railways here as a locomotive foreman.

Discussing her administration plans for the coming year, she said she had several plans in mind for the improvement of the little railway town, 92 miles west of Sudbury. "We have a new council and it is ambitious," she said. "But one must remember the mayor does not run the town—the council does."

Mother of a 21-year-old daughter who stays at home and helps with the housework, Mrs. Hanley said she will make every effort to see that the needy of the town are well cared for.

In "Lady Pacifica's Birthday" Evelyn Swail will play "Lady Pacifica"; Evelyn Groff, "Geneva"; Norman Swail, "Peace"; and Ernest Spencer, "Truth."

Sculptor Lived Humbly For Sake Realism

Renowned for his faithful portrayals of things as they are, Donatello, the supreme sculptor of Italy, has produced a remarkable collection of strikingly life-like carvings that are true, but not, to quote the title of Bernard Shaw's famous play, "too true to be good." If some of his works are in their amazing frankness, a little repellant or ugly, they are simply the exact representations of what he saw. Convinced on any specific occasion, however, that "beauty is truth and truth beauty," he reached unprecedented heights in the creation of sheer lovelmess.

Thus Mrs. E. K. Broadus introduced the great master to a large audience attending the first of a series of lectures on Italian art arranged under the auspices of the Edmonton Museum of Arts Association in the Arts building, Civic Block on Tuesday evening.

LIVED AS LABORER

Reduced life to its simplest terms, Donatello lived, himself, after the fashion of a common laborer. So great was his belief in this creed of realism and so implicit his faith in his own conception of it, that after completing the course but masterfully animated figure of a prophet, he is said to have addressed it, with the word, "Favella" ("Speak!")

A similar tribute was paid to the strength and vigor of his embodiment of the Christian idea of heroism, the youthful and forceful figure of St. George, a Red Cross knight, is alert, poised, his forward motion apparently but momentarily suspended. Michael Angelo's ejaculation on seeing it, "Caminal" or "Walk!" was an eloquent acknowledgement of true genius.

From Donatello's hand has sprung one of the most beautiful "Annunciations" in the history of the art of Italy. Skillful combinations of light and shade enhance the unearthly graceful figure of the Virgin Mother. So well is the head placed that the classical profile is seen in vivid relief against a dark shadow. The elaborate frame is reminiscent of the artist's early impressions of the grandeur of Roman work.

Of particular note are the many restless lines of the draperies, which, Mrs. Broadus said, are used by the artist as ornamental. As well as being decorative, various shields, drapes, logs, are actual ingenious supports for the heavy figures. Thus this fact and not to a racial characteristic, is attributed the very large feet in the statues.

If You Want To Keep Young, Quit Worrying

DEAR MISS DIX—Will you please tell me some of the characteristics that make adults seem youthful? Some people seem old, although they are still young in years. We all wish to remain young. How can we do it? R. A. E.

Answer: The best way to remain young is not to worry over growing old. Lots of women acquire wrinkles trying to avoid them and in their efforts to keep a girlish figure they starve themselves into withered beldames, and look 50 years older than their age instead of 10 years younger.

Dorothy Dix

To a certain extent we can keep our bodies young-ish by taking care of them and eating and sleeping and working and playing right, but nothing stops the relentless march of time and we only befool ourselves when we think that we can attain a youthful youth by the use of cosmetics, having our faces lifted and our hair dyed. Old sheep is never spring lamb, and nobody is so dull and stupid as to mistake 60 for 16.

Indeed, nothing so emphasizes age as for it to spe youth. An elderly woman never looks so old and haggard as when she is diked out in granddaughter's clothes. She never seems so senile as when she ogles men young enough to be her grandsons and talks about her "boy friends." Many a woman, whose age would be of no interest to any one except herself if she dressed appropriately and conducted herself with dignity, is laughed at as a ridiculous old monkey because she tries so hard to be a mere girl.

Once I stayed at a summer hotel in which there was a very smart dress shop. One of its patrons was an elderly woman, so thin that when her back was turned and you saw only her slender figure and her red-gold hair you thought she was a flapper. She always had on the latest thing in expensive sport wear. She was the cynosure of all eyes until she turned around, and under her rakish little hat was seen the furrowed, made-up face of a grandmother. "Heavens, look at that old hag!" was the involuntary exclamation on every lip. But she wasn't. She was a very good-looking woman for her years. What made her seem older was the contrast of her clothes and age.

The spirit of youth does not come in bottles and jars. It is something deep down in your soul that bubbles up through all your being and makes your eyes bright and keep your lips smiling. As long as you have this, you will never be old though you live to be a centenarian. The things that age, and that no amount of powder and rouge and lipstick can camouflage, are self-ishness, lack of sympathy, high temper, jealousy and envy. These etch lines in a face that no masseuse can rub out and that make a woman look as old and hard as Time itself.

So, if you want to keep young, keep your sympathies alive. Make the joys and sorrows of every one about you your own. Be kind. Be tender. Keep the heart of a little child. The years when you are old will be golden years if you have kept young.

What To Do

By Francine Markel

Will you tell me whether or not place cards are correct? If so, what type should I use at a dinner for eight, which I am planning to give during the holidays?

MRS. H. T. S.

Answer—Place cards are correct if the setting of a large number of guests becomes complicated, but if your guests know one another they are not really necessary for a dinner as small as eight. Long age place cards used to be very popular and very elaborate. But today the smartest place cards are the simplest—a small plain card or even the back of one of your own visiting cards could be used. However, even the little fabric cards are rarely seen on smart dinner tables, and "fancy" place cards or favors are not seen at all. These are special occasions like showers, bon voyage or announcement parties when place cards are used as part of the table decorations.

The British motor industry had adopted a plan whereby the top allowance permitted on a used car is its average sale price less 5 per cent.

Your Children — By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mrs. Brown was in a dilemma. She had invited Joan to be generous and share her toys with the other children who came in to play.

That was when the possessions of her little dame would stand generosity. If a neighbor child dropped a doll in the mud—or broke a leg off a toy bed, it could easily be charged up to profit and loss without breaking the bank.

Now, however, Joan had become very expensive presents. Besides toys there were also fine books to be preserved for her. Her room had to be well appointed, too; and what about the really good cushions and curtains and carpets? Were the visitors to be allowed to treat them carelessly? Joan had been told they were hers. If Sally-Joe made herself happily and entirely at home in the blue room and left marks on everything she touched, what should Joan do about it?

O. R. Barton

TEMPERING GENEROSITY

Mrs. Brown thought it over. It was time to come to a decision. Should Joan be allowed to go on being over-generous? It had been part of her plan to keep every vestige of selfishness out of her little child.

That day one of the new books disappeared. It was found later on Sally-Joe's porch, wet and ruined. Shortly after that one of the blue pillows was discovered in the bath tub. In the meantime the bright new toys were daily looking more shabby and scarred.

That decided her. She had taught generosity. Now she would have to qualify it. After all, there was such a thing as "property rights" and every one has to learn self-protection.

She did the right thing. "Generosity" was the basis of her talk. So she said to her child, "Joan, when you are so generous to Sally-Joe, don't you think she should be generous to you?"

MAKING THE DISTINCTION

Joan was her mother. She gives me lots of things."

Mrs. Brown did not utter her thoughts — that Sally-Joe was abused her own possessions so much she was not concerned with further care of them.

"Yes, but real kindness and generosity means more than giving or lending things, Joan. If Sally-Joe were really generous she would not destroy your nice things. She wouldn't break, or tear or scratch them."

"You tell her, mother. She'll get mad."

"I think you can tell her. Say to her that it is as important to be kind to things as to people. And when you do that, you are being kind to the people who own them, also."

Little by little the other child absorbed it. She went home and preached the philosophy to her mother (who needed it) and there was not so much trouble thereafter.

While this plan worked out satisfactorily, there are many cases where it won't succeed. It is delicate business, this of setting properly rights and generosity to a nice balance.

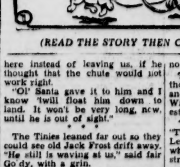

A BEDTIME STORY

"Oh, watch Jack Frost! He's sailing fast. I hope his parachute will last," said Coppy, "I think he was very brave, the way he jumped.

They found no jump needed, though the basket settled nice and slow. "How wonderful," cried Windy. "There was not the slightest bump."

"Look," Coppy whispered. "There's a shack. Be careful, now. Let's all hide back of trees, and see what happens. There's a tiny strange man, too.

The Debunker

Many people clean their "German silver" with a piece of leather called "chamois skin." Others use the skin for washing cars and cleaning windows. It is often called "chammy skin." These skins are not made from chamois at all, for this little, agile animal lives only on the highest mountain ridges of Europe where it is very difficult to catch. This skin is really sheepskin, and is prepared by treating the flesh side of the animal's hide, reduced to an even thickness with pumice stone, and then it is tanned and dressed in phuric acid. This process is repeated several times, then the skin is wrung and dried and made soft by stretching and rubbing. These skins have been made from real chamois hides at one time, although this is questioned. But the name probably originated from the word "chamiocher," meaning leather. Goat and calf skins are also used.

You Sleep Without Pillow For Beauty

By GLADYS GLAD

Down in Burma, I am told, the doting mother who wishes her daughter to grow up into a beauty, places metal hoops about her neck when she is merely a tot. The mother increases the number of hoops gradually, as her offspring grows older. And she does her best to elongate the lassies neck as much as possible. For in that part of the globe, an exaggeratedly long neck is considered one of the most potent of beauty assets.

Over in this America, of course, a giraffe-like neck holds no charm whatsoever, American standards of beauty call for a straight, firm neck of moderate proportions.

Sleeping with the head bolstered up by huge, downy pillows every night is likely to have a detrimental effect on the loveliness of the neck. In the first place, this practice results in the development of an ugly, protruding vertebrae at the back of the neck. And in the second place, when the head is constantly pushed forward in that manner, the lines of the neck may be ruined, and the development of a flabby double chin may result.

If you wish your neck and chin to retain their firm, youthful contours, try to get into the habit of sleeping without a pillow. That may sound like a harsh measure to you, but it's not. Because you'll easily get used to sleeping without having your head bolstered up.

In order to preserve a firm, youthful neck, it is also wise to practice neck exercises daily. Such exercises will also help to prevent the formation of any youth-destroying double chin. There are some excellent ones for this purpose outlined in my "New Figure" booklet. And the following are also most beneficial:

Stand erect, hands on back of your head, chin dropped forward on your chest, and shoulders relaxed forward. Then slowly pull your head upward, resisting with your hands and rear muscles of neck, until your head and elbows are pulled well back. Relax and repeat 15 to 20 times.

JUNE THRAVIS

Take a position on your hands and knees, with your back flat. Then raise your head as far backward as possible and hollow your back, while still on your hands and knees. Next, let your head fall downward, completely relaxed, and hump your back upward. Repeat 15 to 20 times.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Lashes

June: Apply a bit of plain vaseline or odorless castor oil to your lashes nightly before retiring. This will help to promote their growth and thickness.

Make-Up

With All My Love

By Mary Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Against the wishes of her grandmother, aristocratic MRS. WILLIARD CAMERON, DANA CAMERON secretly marries DR. SCOTT STANLEY, struggling young physician.

Before her marriage, RONALD MOORE had been in love with Dana. NANCY, Dana's half-sister, loved Ronald, but hides her feeling behind a disdainful attitude.

Both Mrs. Cameron and PAULA LONG, who has loved Ronald for years, hopes the marriage will not last.

Dana becomes aware of Paula's infatuation for her husband. After a misunderstanding, she returns to her grandmother's home. Mrs. Cameron decides to do all she can to make the separation permanent.

Dana's comfortable life ended. Dana remains disconsolate, believing Scott loves Paula. Scott, meanwhile, believes Dana left him because he is poor.

He is taken into partnership by the wealthy DR. CRAWFORD.

After six months, Dana decides to divorce Scott, believing it is what he wants.

Ronnie goes abroad, hoping Dana will realize she loves him. He returns and tells Dana a house party Dana's indifference makes Ronnie unhappy. Dana accepts an invitation to go fishing with Ronnie's man. Their boat almost runs down another boat containing Paula and Scott as one of the occupants.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

DESPITE the fact that he was trying to be understanding, Ronnie was aggrieved by Dana's attitude. He thought she was trifling, to say the least, for Dana to accept Cyril Lancaster's invitation to go fishing.

When their absence lengthened past the breakfast hour Ronnie was sure he had just cause for grievance.

Gay groups eddied about him. No one was paying any heed to him. Ronnie sensed that Paula was wearing a mask. Her high-pitched laughter was a note that was almost hysterical. For some reason Ronnie felt sorry for Paula.

As though driven by a current of sympathy, she detached herself from the others and joined him.

"They should have brought all the fish in the lake by this time," she said, adding, "It occurs to me that you and I are in the same boat, Ronnie."

"Oh, I guess we could have fished, too, if we hadn't been lazy," Ronnie said carelessly.

"Don't be dumb. I didn't mean that."

"What did you mean?" Ronnie asked impatiently.

Paula's eyes narrowed. "Dana and I are a couple of fools," she said slowly. "But not for the same fool than I ever was. Figure it out."

Ronnie frowned. Paula was always trying to be subtle. Or was this her way of making trouble, setting a score with Dana? If she was hinting something about Scott it was all a lot of nonsense. Dana had been divorced from Scott six months now, and it had been almost a year since she had left him. Women don't go about on these modern times eating their hearts out for men they have deliberately divorced.

Ronnie determined that he would not let what Paula had said worry him.

But an hour later he was driving to town. He had explained that business required an hour of his time.

"I'll be back by lunch time," Ronnie said. "Tell Dana to save her biggest fish for me."

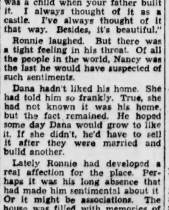

On the drive his resentment increased. He had dreamed of his homecoming through months of travel. Dana couldn't be true to him enough to suit him. Yet here he was, alone, ditched for a man who meant nothing at all to Dana.

He drove past the Cameron home. Nancy was leaning against a tree. Ronnie stopped and waited, her dark eyes wide.

"Well, Nancy," Ronnie teased. "I expected a big, welcoming smile, and what do I get? Not even a how-de-do."

Nancy laughed nervously. "Serves you right. Looming up in front of me, when I'm counting you were miles away."

She made no move to go. Which,

Prunes Make Many Delightful Dishes

By MARY E. DAGUE

How did prunes ever fall into disrepute, anyway? Could it have been that some rival fruit started the propaganda? Because, really, if you eat them at their best, you'll like them—for instance, as a cocktail at dinner or stuffed in salad.

Prunes are graded for market these days and so the housewife can get exactly the quality she wants. Generally speaking, the best grades are the cheapest in the long run because they contain the least stones. There are ten sizes, varying from 20-30s to 110-120s, the figure referring to the number of prunes to the pound.

If you order 20-30s you will expect to find 20 to 30 large prunes in each pound. If you get 110 to 120 prunes to the pound they will be very small. Medium sized prunes averaging 40 to 50 to the pound are suitable for most purposes. But if the prunes are to be sieved or cut up the small ones are just as good. It is worth knowing that although the number of nuts is greater in the small size prunes, there is more meat for the money in a pound of small prunes than there is in a pound of large ones.

Sister Mary

California almost exclusively produces sweet prunes which have firm, sweet flesh and consequently need little sugar in cooking. The tart prunes usually are grown in Washington and Oregon. These prunes average larger in size, carry larger pits and ordinarily require more sugar in cooking.

Prune bavarian cream is a nourishing dessert that will be a fitting end for dinner that is lacking in protein calories. When meat is served primarily for flavor such a dessert brings the meal up to the necessary standard of balance.

PRUNE BAVARIAN CREAM

One tablespoon granulated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 4 tablespoons scalded milk, ½ cup sugar, whites 2 eggs, 1 pint whipping cream, 1 cup cooked and pressed prunes, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Add scalded milk and dissolve. Add sugar and stir until cool. When mixture begins to thicken. Add whites of eggs beaten until stiff, cream whipped until firm, salt, vanilla and prunes. Mix lightly and turn into a mold which has been gurgled with cold water. Chill and serve with cooked prunes. Let stand on ice until chilled and firm. Unmold and serve with cooked sauce.

One and one-half cups milk, 2 egg yolks, 4 tablespoons sugar, few grains salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Beat yolks with sugar and salt. Scald milk and slowly pour over egg mixture. Return to top of double boiler and cook and stir over hot water until custard coats a metal spoon. Pour immediately into a cold pitcher and let stand until cool. Flavor with vanilla just before serving.

A hearty vegetable soup with hot Parkerhouse rolls and prune bavarian cream furnishes a goodly amount of nourishment and makes an inexpensive and appetizing winter evening meal.

HEARTY VEGETABLE SOUP

Choose a soup bone with considerable meat. Put it into soup kettle and cover with cold water. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer three hours. An hour before serving, add vegetables, beginning with those which take the longest to cook. Season well with salt and pepper when vegetables are added. Use potatoes, tomatoes, cabbage, onions, carrots and green beans. Don't cut the potatoes and cabbage into too small pieces. This is a version of the boiled dinner although vegetables predominate and meat is used chiefly for its appetizing flavor.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled tomato juice, cereal, cream, broiled liver sausage, corn-bread, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked macaroni and cheese, hearts of celery, canned strawberries, milk, tea.

DINNER: Vegetable soup, Parkerhouse rolls, prune bavarian cream, milk, coffee.

For gala party occasions you may like to use a new eye shadow that gives a sheen through which the lashes green, violet or gray shines. This is different from last year's metallic flicked shadows. Blend the eye shadow well up the lid of the eye instead of just across the lid as you do with regular eye shadow.

RESCUE OF 20 SNOW-TRAPPED MINERS NEAR

Men and Families Marooned on Isolated Wyoming Ranch

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho, Jan. 8—Rescue of 20 snow-trapped coal miners and their families, marooned on an isolated Wyoming ranch by the section's worst snow storm in 30 years, was believed near last night.

A tractor-powered snow plow, manned by forestry workers, nosed its way through ponderous snowdrifts over the last few miles that separated the miners from rescuers. Officials of the Blind Bull Coal Mine Company said the plow should reach the ranch during the night.

The mine crew was trapped at its "diggings," 8,500 feet up in the Rockies, Saturday, when a sudden change of weather brought a mountain blizzard that buried communicating roads under heavy banks of snow. The crew had worked unusually late this winter because of mild weather.

Finding their automobiles useless in the blizzard, the miners and their families started a long trek through the heavy snows down from the mine. They were unable to get past the ranch house, six miles from the shaft.

Camrose Farmers Use Cabooses For Winter Transport

CAMROSE, Jan. 8—Heated cabooses built on sleighs, for use in cold weather and blizzards on the prairies are frequently seen in this district. The three dairy sleighs in Camrose are of the caboose type.

In winter every sort of a sled imaginable is used by farmers. They quite often sit on straw on the bottom of grain tanks when coming to town, leaving only the fur-haited heads sticking out.

One man does express work in a prairie schooner type of a caboose-bodied sleigh, which has skids built on both sides of the body to keep the contraption upright when going over rough ground and top-sy-turvey drifts. A four-horse team pulls this snow-freigater.

There are no standard designs, and each sled, box or caboose is an original contrivance.

HURT BY MILL

Swanson, 51, residing on a farm three miles east of Rimbey, sustained painful injuries to the upper left arm and laceration of the cheek and chin when he was caught in the machinery of a hammermill he was operating on New Year's day. Mr. Swanson's clothing became entangled in the cogs but he had presence of mind to kick the belt off of the motor and thus saved himself from almost certain death.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

FOUR little mice solved a production problem on "The Melody Lingers On" set. A cat was supposed to drowse in Helen Westley's lap and then suddenly leap to the floor without warning, upset a basket of yarn, and dash off.

Scene after scene was tried without Tabby doing the leap to the satisfaction of the director. Catnip, saucers of milk, and fish dragged across the floor on a string didn't work. Finally a prop man arrived on the set with a wire cage—and mice. At the right moment the mice were released and the cat leaped for its instinctive prey. The scene was perfect.

DETECTIVE IS MISTAKEN FOR BURGLAR, SHOT

Vancouver Policeman Is Wounded in Hip by Fellow Officer

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8—Detective David W. Shearer was shot in the hip last night by a fellow officer when he was mistaken for a burglar as police answered a call to a house in Vancouver's east end. Shearer was taken to hospital. His wound was not believed serious. A youth of juvenile age was arrested.

Police broadcast a report burglars were in a Dundee street house and Shearer, off duty but who lives in the vicinity, rushed to the house. Detective James Copeland, also off duty, rushed from his own home on Dundas street. Seeing Shearer in the dark of an alley brandishing a gun and believing him to be one of the burglars, Copeland fired four shots, one of which felled the detective.

RABBITS BRING HIGH REVENUE TO SETTLEMENTS

Alberta Teachers Young And Sweet Say Normalites

CAMROSE, Jan. 8—That the "sweet young school marm" just isn't—as stated in Saskatoon, according to insurance statistics, is not true of Alberta, teachers here aver.

They contend that insurance figures are not accurate statistics when it comes to determining the average age of school teachers, as nowadays the average young teacher, especially in the rural districts, cannot afford insurance. Also, of course, it is the older and more firmly established teacher who takes out insurance.

Women teachers in the country are just as young and sweet as ever, at least in Alberta, they say, as some of them have just graduated from high schools and normal.

"The Saskatoon yarn is based on insurance, not teachers' figures," retorted an insurance agent here.

Calgary Armoury Under Quarantine

CALGARY, Jan. 8.—Military officials at Calgary armories placed the building under quarantine last night after a case of German measles was reported. About 80 members of Lord Strathcona's Horse, resident in the building, were affected. All parades and meetings in the armories were cancelled.

"The disease is not a very serious one and in some cities is not regarded as a subject for quarantine," said Dr. W. H. Hill, city medical officer. City health authorities quarantined only the room in which the case was found.

U.S. Railroads Move To Smash Pension Laws

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Major United States railroads sued Tuesday to smash the new deal's railroad retirement pension legislation —1935 successor to the law invalidated last spring by a 5-4 decision of the supreme court

The District of Columbia supreme court was asked by 125 carriers to grant, before March 1, a permanent injunction against operation of the act granting federal annuities to elderly employees, and the companion measure taxing railroads and employees to raise the funds.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

"Scrooge," the motion-picture version of that immortal Charles Dickens story, "A Christmas Carol," which is showing Wednesday at the Rialto theatre, is being shown both in America and England 92 years, to the month, after it was written. Dickens produced "A Christmas Carol" in December of 1843.

The film, which follows the original story scrupulously and employs the exact dialogue as set down by the author, features Seymour Hicks, one of England's most famous character actors, in the role of "Scrooge." Donald Calthrop is cast as "Bob Cratchit," the hapless clerk in Scrooge's nasty offices.

The added feature on the same program is "Racing Luck," with Bill Boyd and Barbara Worth. The added shorts are a Vitaphone Variety and Universal News with Graham McNamee.

"Breath O' Spring" dinnerware will be given to the ladies Wednesday.

FARM HOUSE FIRE DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

Third Victim of Tragedy South of Winnipeg Succumbs Tuesday

MORDEN, Man., Jan. 8.—Death toll of a farm house fire near here, 75 miles south of Winnipeg, stood at three last night with the death of Arni Olafson, 56, councillor of the rural municipality of Stanley and prominent farmer of the Morden area.

Mr. Olafson's death followed that of his wife and daughter, Annie, 16 years old, from burns received when their home was destroyed by fire following explosion of a can of gasoline in the home.

The fire occurred Monday morning when the can of gasoline exploded and threw flames over the family.

CHAMBER OF MINES WILL FUNCTION INDEPENDENTLY

By-Laws Approved At Organization Meeting Tuesday

New Body Will Not be Connected With Edmonton Chamber of Commerce — Elect Officers Shortly.

The Edmonton Chamber of Mines, that lusty moppet in the family of civic business-promotion organizations, nurtured by a $1,000 grant from the city and a $2,620 subscription fund of businessmen, shook off the threatened foster parentship of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, established itself as a separate entity and attained adulthood at an organization meeting held in the Macdonald hotel Tuesday night, when its bylaws were approved and a provisional committee of eight confirmed to draw up a future plan of campaign.

The power to name a date for the election of officers was vested in the provincial committee comprised of John Michaels, C. E. Garnett, G. Dingwall, F. C. Norris, C. D. Jacox, H. O. Patriquin, J. C. Budd and R. Brough.

MANY NOTABLES

The general organization meeting attended by close to 70 men including such notables as: W. R. "Wop" May, C. H. "Punch" Dickins, Micky Ryan, J. K. "Peace River Jim" Cornwall, Jerry Murphy, Ed. Hargreaves and Emil J. Walli, was shaken for 45 minutes in a hot debate hinged on the question of the Mines Chamber linglocking with the Chamber of Commerce.

Champion of the cause for separate identity, John Michaels, led the attack for an independent entity and won out. The Edmonton Chamber of Mines will function independently of, but guarantees cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce.

The eight provincial directors of the Mines chamber will automatically resign when the organization meet at a date named by them, to make way for an elected executive.

John Michaels pointed out that out of the million dollar federal geological survey this year, more than $350,000 passed through Edmonton business channels; that the City of Edmonton has granted $1,000 to the Chamber of Mines and that city businessmen have pledged an additional $3,620.

Mayor Joseph Clarke told the assembled mine operators and businessmen that the city in granting the $1,00 had followed its accepted rule of never subsidizing a wildcat proposition and therefore did not hesitate to invest in "certain mines as Great Bear Lake, Yellowknife, Hottah Lake, Outpost Island and Goldfields at Athabaska.

BOOSTING MINING

The city's $1,000 "investment" in the northland will be dedicated to facilitating the work of the Mines Chamber in boosting the booming mining industry.

"Seattle cashed in on the Klondyke; Toronto made good on the northern Ontario fields and it's up to Edmonton not to pass up the opportunity offered by the development in the north," warned Mayor Clarke.

"The city I am sure, and myself I know, are behind these northern mining fields to a man. The phones are in the city for your use and I'm there to answer them—so if there is anything I can do, be sure to call."

Dr. Allan Cameron of the University of Alberta spoke two sentences but they carried much meaning.

"Edmonton," he said, "can and should be the 'neck of the bottle' which business flows through to the north. It has to be and we do not miss."

"The parade of skyscrapers on Toronto's Bay street rose from the millions which came out of the northern mining fields," enthused C. E. Garnett. "And if Edmonton plays her hand right we should see something of a repeat performance of the Toronto feat right here in this city."

ADD PEP TO TALK

Added pep to the "pep talk" was injected into the history-making meeting by C. H. "Punch" Dickins, W. R. "Wop" May, Mickey Ryan, Canadian Airways; Micky Ryan, the Fort Smith-Fort Fitzgerald portage transportation operator; J. K. "Peace River Jim" Cornwall, and Jerry Murphy, pioneer northland transportation man.

Gerald O'Connor, legal counsel for the Chamber of Mines, sketched its new by-laws, outlined a proposed constitution and acted as a provisional judge in the argument for and against amalgamation with the Chamber of Commerce.

At the conclusion of the meeting, a vote of appreciation was given John Michaels and the provisional directorate of eight.

Edmonton and District War Widows' Association will meet Thursday at 2:30 in the Memorial Hall.

MINING MAN STERN CRITIC NEW CHAMBER

Says Too Much Talk By Theorists Will Wreck Organization

"The Edmonton Chamber of Mines? Say, let's not fool about this thing. It was a good idea when first suggested but your businessmen and University professors who know very little about 'down-to-earth' practical mining won't do it any good."

The foregoing statement was made on Wednesday morning by one of the larger mine operators with extensive and productive properties in the North West Territories.

When speaking, he made it plain that he was not "knocking" but merely pointing out the facts well known to mine operators, for the benefit of the various civic betterment organizations behind the new Chamber of Mines.

TALK, TALK, TALK

"While offering his 'constructive criticism' this mine operator with holdings in the northern Ontario fields, had it understood his identity was to be protected when he saw a Bulletin reporter Wednesday and presented his viewpoint of the new Mines Chamber.

"I attended the meeting Tuesday night in the Macdonald hotel but the long drawn out arguement for and against the consolidation of the Mines Chamber with the Chamber of Commerce drove me out and back to my room," he said.

"Joe Clarke knew the value to Edmonton of the northern mining fields and it is to be regretted that because of certain ultra-conservative elements in the civic administration, he was forced to explain that the city's $1,000 grant to fact Chamber of Mines must be carefully examined by commissioners and auditors."

WHAT DO THEY KNOW?

"The Chamber of Mines while establishing itself as a separate entity has promised 'close cooperation' with the Chamber of Commerce. Now what in the hell do the businessmen members of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce know about mining?

"They know less than the university professors do. I have watched the progress of the Manitoba Chamber of Mines and I suggest that the Edmonton Chamber follow that lead, by getting mining men, conversant with the north and the gold, silver and radium fields, to guide the administration."

"The whole idea of the Chamber of Mines seems to be what Edmonton and Edmonton businessmen can get out of these fields and the mining trade than what they can do to help and promote the fields.

"Personally I will not attend the meeting Tuesday night. He probably knew what it would be like.

"The argument over affiliation with other bodies, the discussion on by-laws and other forms of hair splitting will bog down the new Chamber and turn it into just another board of trade. If Edmonton's businessmen want to put the Chamber of Mines over in good style there will have to be less talk and more action."

EARLY PAYMENTS TAXES CLIMB TO TUNE OF $77,773

Climbing steadily toward what civic officials hope will be the million-dollar mark by January 15, tax prepayments made up till Tuesday night totalled $77,773, according to figures released Wednesday by Tax Collector Thomas Walker. Early tax payments to the tune of $19,596 rolled into city coffers Tuesday.

Officials base their estimate that prepayments will reach a million dollars during the period ending January 15 on the fact that last year the total was $613,000. It is expected tax collections will speed up just before the middle of the month as the 4½ per cent interest allowed on taxes paid before the instalment due dates will not commence until January 15.

Tuesday's payments were made by the smaller taxpayers, no individual amount being very large.

City Member For Province Board Not Chosen Yet

Referring to a recent statement by A. A. Macdonald, provincial relief administrator, that the province had not been informed who would represent the city on the proposed provincial relief committee of four members, Mayor J. A. Clarke said Wednesday that the council had not yet selected a representative.

City council's special relief committee is recommending to council that the province be asked to reduce the proposed board to three members, representing the province, city and rural municipalities. It is pointed out that a committee of four is unwieldly, and that the city would become a member only on a committee of three instead of four or more, since Edmonton would then have stronger representation.

The relief group as planned by the province would consider the responsibility of disputed relief cases as between the province, Edmonton and rural municipalities.

SAYS LAKEMAN TAKING ORDERS FROM MOSCOW

Carl Berg Charges Communist Leader With Labor Sabotage

Charging that Jan. Lakeman, acknowledged Communist leader in Edmonton, is, whether knowingly or otherwise, following instructions from Moscow issued in an effort to upset trade union organizations, Carl Berg, president of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council met the attack of the Communist leader today by issuing a statement of his position in the controversy which has arisen in Edmonton trades union circles and which resulted in Lakeman being ousted.

"While I have no intention of entering into a newspaper controversy over trade union internal affairs, many friends and delegates to the Trades Council have asked me to reply to statements made by Jan Lakeman in order to set the public right in the matter," said Berg on Wednesday.

STATEMENTS ARE FALSE

"In the first place Lakeman's statement that the Edmonton Trades Council is the only Council in Canada holding a charter direct from the A. F. of L. is false, and is fully knows this. The Trades Councils of Montreal, Toronto, Quebec, Hamilton, Kingston, Ottawa, Sudbury, St. Thomas, St. John, Winnipeg, Vancouver, and a number of other cities hold similar charters.

"Mr. Lakeman's statement that the president of the Council is withholding information from the executive committee of the Council, is also false. Early last fall Tom Moore, then president of the Congress, wired the Trades Council that 'All Communist groups are considered by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada as solely in the category of organizations referred to in article 12, section 1 of the Congress constitution.'

"Without quoting this article in full, I may say that it does provide, that persons expelled from other International or National organizations, and hostile to the Congress, shall not be admitted to any body chartered by the Congress.

IN LINE WITH MOSCOW

"I am of course not in the least surprised at Mr. Lakeman applying for membership in an International Union, as this is in line with instructions from Moscow, to enter land-bore from within our organizations, but I want to point out that Wm. Hutchison, International President of the union which Mr. Lakeman claims his membership, was a member of the committee which drafted the clause which the Trades Council and Communists from being delegates to central bodies.

"One of the statements of facts submitted to this committee, was a statement issued by M. Zaguline, head of the Red International of Trade Unions which read in part:

"That we want to form a revolutionist Trade Union; that we want to weaken them; that we want to explode their discipline; that we want to wrest the workers from them; that we want to break up the Trade Unions appear also—of that there can not be the slightest doubt."

"Instructions are also given on methods of procedures to be followed in appealing to the rank and file of the Trade Unions, and arming of the Communists be discovered in their work and expelled. Mr. Lakeman is living up to Moscow instructions, of this there can not also be the slightest doubt."

FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

Referring to the statements made regarding the finances of the Edmonton Trades Council Mr. Berg was equally emphatic.

"As far as the finances of the council are concerned I will say this. If many of the business institutions in Edmonton were as solvent during the present economic stress their owners and managers would sleep a lot easier. It is true that we are a little money, but we have more than sufficient collectible money outstanding to take care of all our obligations and we are sound financially," he said.

Mr. Berg also indicated that the executive by the vote of 9 to 7 in making certain recommendations at the next meeting which, if adopted, will remedy present difficulties which may have existed.

CHANGE OF FRONT

From other labor leaders in the city it was learned that ex-Alderman J. W. Findlay, who at Monday night's meeting precipitated the stormy session which resulted in Lakeman's ousting, had changed his stand regarding the seating of the latter as a delegate.

"As president of the Canadian Labor Party he had refused to seat Lakeman as a delegate to that party and had his credentials returned to him, but now he wants him to be seated as a delegate to the Edmonton Trades Council. His tie-up with the avowed leader of the Communist party on this occasion is not understood in view of his previous stand," said one labor leader commenting on the mix-up.

City May Grant Junior Motormen Share Day Work

Likelihood of city council granting junior motormen on the street railway a share of day work if the shift the province has asked to reduce the proposed board to three members, representing the province, city and rural municipalities. It is pointed out that a committee of four is unwieldly, and that the city would become a member only on a committee of three instead of four or more, since Edmonton would then have stronger representation.

The relief group as planned by the province would consider the responsibility of disputed relief cases as between the province, Edmonton and rural municipalities.

Gleaned From Today's News

Mackenzie Air Service reported Wednesday morning that Harry Hayter was at Fort Chipewyan while Stan McMillan was at Fort Smith.

It has been arranged by the executive of the Federation of Community Leagues to have Professor H. E. Smith, psychology teacher at the University of Alberta, give a talk at the regular Federation meeting to be held Thursday evening in the community chamber. Professor Smith's talk, entitled "A Pattern of Life," will be broadcast.

After a lapse of two months the regular monthly meetings of the Edmonton Sword Club (formerly the Civil Service Club), was held in the Liberal committee rooms in the McLeod building Tuesday evening. A good turnout was on hand and plans for another successful season in fencing is being looked forward to.

Word has been received here of the death at Pacific Grove, Cal., of Mrs. James Faris, sister of Mrs. J. L. Cant of this city. Mrs. Faris has visited here on several occasions, the last time being about four years ago, when she made many friends. Burial will take place at St. Louis, Mo., her former home.

Samuel Gorman, 10639 66 avenue, was thrown to the ground Tuesday evening and received injuries to the head and shoulder when his sleigh was struck from the rear by a car driven by Cecil Gothard, at the corner of 103 street and 83 avenue. The tongue of the sleigh was broken, and the horses bolted but stopped in the south side market square, half a block away.

EARLY CLOSING OF DEPARTMENT STORES AGAIN

Edmonton's large department stores, The T. Eaton Company, The Hudson's Bay Company, Woodward's, and Johnstone Walker's will close at 1:00 p.m. Wednesday afternoons.

The early mid-week closing is compulsory only during the summer months and the stores are making this move during January, February and spring months in the interests of their staffs.

POKER GAME ENDS IN COURT CASE

Henry Loyer, formerly well-known player in local baseball circles, was in district court Wednesday morning being sued for $100. The case was the result of a poker game held in May, 1935.

According to evidence, Loyer took part in the poker game, liquor was plentiful and Loyer decided that he needed some money. He gave a cheque for $100 to an acquaintance, who had it cashed by J. W. Wyatt. Mr. Wyatt now would like to collect the money.

Judge Cavanagh adjourned the case until 2 p.m. Thursday to hear the evidence of the man who received the cheque from Loyer.

Police Court

On the identification of Constable Art Johnson, who had watched his progress against the back window of a taxi cab which the police prowler car was following, Steve Sawchuk was committed for trial on a charge of obtaining possession of stolen property.

Constable Carle, taxi driver, identified Sawchuk as a man he had driven on several occasions but would not identify Elmer as the passenger who had picked up a large carton from a vacant property on 104 avenue and placed it in the cab on January 4, the night he was stopped by the police car. Carle said he did not know what the passenger had picked up, except that it was a carton.

Constable Johnson said Sawchuk had jumped from the taxi and escaped but was arrested later that night. A large carton of tobacco, cigarettes and chocolate bars was a court exhibit.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Premier William Aberhart, B.A., is credited with having made the statement in last Sunday's address from the Prophetic Bible Institute, that "I feel glad to think there will be no newspapers in heaven and those fellows can get another job!"

How do you stack up on this somewhat contentious utterance the B.I.E. asked several representative citizens.

Here's what happened:

W. R. HOWSON, K.C., M.L.A.: Personally I have always found the newspapers have been very fair to me. Sometimes they have kicked me plenty but I presume I deserved it. A little criticism occasionally does every one good. I hope all newspapermen go to a Newspaper Man's heaven when they get the chance.

* * *

D. M. DUGGAN, M.L.A.: I suppose here and there there will be there with wings if one takes a general view.

* * *

R. W. GREENE, General Steamship Agent: I don't see how we can get along without newspaper men anywhere. I think we should have them in Heaven too. They are a necessity.

* * *

G. H. VAN ALLEN, K.C., M.L.A.: I will tell you after I get there. I think I am generous to say that much.

* * *

G. P. PONTON, Accountant: I don't think there will be any need of a paper men in Heaven but my reason for saying so is not the same as Mr. Aberhart's.

* * *

HAL COOPER, Insurance Executive: To condemn a whole class is rather unfair. Some newspaper men are very fine fellows and are fair in their dealings with the public. Of course to err is human and perhaps some do intentionally or otherwise misquote sometimes.

* * *

MRS. HUGH JOHN HALL, Housewife: I am sorry to hear that our worthy premier feels that way about it. I think newspaper men just as good as anyone else or they certainly make a real contribution to the community.

* * *

ETHEL-FERREE GARVEY, Dressmaker: Knowing some newspaper men, it is sad to reflect how lonesome some of them would be.

* * *

BILL McGOWN, Delivery Boy: I feel glad to believe that there will be newspapers men in Heaven because they are not such a bad lot after all.

* * *

MRS. DONNA CONTI, Manager: I think there will be newspaper men in Heaven—there's got to be —they are indispensable.

DISPOSITION RELIEF FUNDS IS DISCUSSED

Work on the allocation of the $175,000 monthly allowance on account of relief, paid by the province to the province, was commenced on Wednesday by Premier William Aberhart.

The premier stated that the first cheque on the scale of allowance, increased from $100,000 a month to $175,000 at the Dominion-provincial conference in Ottawa, was in hand, but that as Ontario already had received its first cheque, no doubt the Alberta one was in the mail.

The whole idea of the increased grant to the province was so that the burden on the municipalities would be lightened.

The premier has pointed out that there will be no increase in the relief scale, that the increased grant is mercy to shift the burden from municipalities to the province.

ALBERTA SEEKS MORE FUNDS

Seeking ways and means of refunding the Alberta public debt and of obtaining funds with which Alberta Savings Certificates can be redeemed, Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer, left for Ottawa on Tuesday night. In the east he will be joined by R. J. Magor, special financial adviser to the government, and together they will attend a conference, called by Hon. C. A. Dunning, dominion finance minister, of all provincial treasurers.

In addition to refunding and savings certificates, Hon. Mr. Cockroft will take up assistance for meeting a $3,000,000 Alberta maturity on January 15.

The Ottawa parley also will discuss the advisibility of creating a national finance council, means of avoiding duplication, taxation, interest rates and interprovincial and dominion co-operation.

Time Marches On But Stays Still At Court House

Time Marches On! But not at the Court House.

In the main rotunda of the venerable building there is a notice board which bears the inscription, "Edmonton Law Students' Association."

The glass on the case is kept clean but pinned to the green baize facing the board are two papers, withered and yellow with time. They are both notices to the law students dated October 1, 1921.

One is signed by L. C. Cox and the other is signed by Howard T. Emery, now a practicing solicitor, but at that time an official of the students' association.

No one has bothered to tear down the old notices and apparently since 1921 the Law Students' Association hasn't been sufficiently active to post any new ones.

IMPORTANT GAP IN GREAT WAR STORY FILLED

Woodrow Wilson Removed Obstacles to First U.S. Loans to Allies

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—With J. P. Morgan seated placidly before it, the senate munitions committee filled an important gap in Great War history Tuesday with a disclosure that Woodrow Wilson himself removed obstacles to the first of many United States loans to the allied powers.

From the head of the powerful house of Morgan, however, there came assertions also that German acts, and not the lending of American dollars, drew the United States into the war.

SYMPATHIES WITH ALLIES

The financier and his associates at the same time readily told the committee that the sympathies of the American banking fraternity lay with the allies from the start; and, as quickly as diplomatic barriers were removed, the loans began to flow in increasing volume.

Cablegrams gleaned from the Morgan files revealed, moreover, that scarcely three days after France entered the war, that country made round-about overtures to the Morgan House for a loan or commercial credit.

BROAD DISTINCTION

The state department, under William Jennings Bryan, disapproved, testimony and correspondence showed. President Wilson, however, altered the situation by drawing a broad distinction which permitted "credits" but maintained the ban on loans.

"When the government turned itself loose, we turned ourselves loose," Morgan chuckled, after committee members had elicited statement that for all practical purposes the effect of loan and credits was the same.

Seeking to determine—for purposes connected with pending neutrality legislation—whether the vast loans extended to the Allies by American bankers exerted a controlling influence in shoving the United States into the conflict later, the committee had summoned Morgan, his partner, Thomas W. Lamont, and Frank A. Vanderlip, president in 1914 of the National City Bank of New York.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. Shepard

TOO GREAT STRENGTH

Every player knows the first part of the following rule: "Lead through strength . . . Few appear to know the last part of the same rule: "but not through too great strength." I just saw a game made, instead of going down two tricks, because the opening lead violated that rule. It also violated the general rule against blindly leading the suit led by dummy.

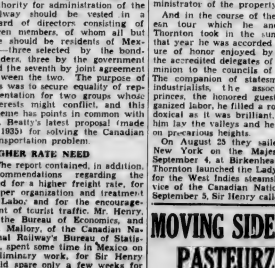

Bidding went: South, 1-Diamond; North, 1-Spade; South, 3-Spades; North, 4-Spades.

Although members of the declaring side held powerful hands there was a bad distribution of opposing honors, and they had clubs, which with ordinary defensive strategy should have given opponents several tricks, defeating the game contract. The normal opening lead is East's 4 of clubs, giving West two tricks in that suit. West's proper return lead after winning the opening lead with his K or J of clubs, is a club, insuring East two tricks in the suit. Later on dummy must lose a trick to the K of diamonds.

Probably East thought that South's diamonds were very weak, as he did not rebid the suit. In any event the opening lead was the 6 of diamonds. West's K won the trick. He led back his 2 of diamonds and East was in with the Q. Back went the 4 of clubs. Declarer went up with dummy's Ace, winning his first trick.

Three rounds of trumps pulled all opposing spades. The 10 of diamonds was overtaken with dummy's 7, and four rounds of that suit were taken. Upon the last three rounds, declarer discarded both his clubs and one heart. He ruffed a club lead from dummy, and led his last trump, but East hung onto his Ace of hearts which finally won the third defensive trick, giving North his 4-odd.

South plays 4-Spades. West doubles. West takes two diamond tricks, then ruffs declarer with a third diamond. Before tomorrow see if the call can be defeated.

Bankers Face U.S. Munitions

The United States Senate munitions committee, headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, resumed its investigation Jan. 7 of world war profits of munitions makers and their tie-ups with financiers and foreign interests. J. Pierpont Morgan and his banking partners are appearing as witnesses before the committee. Morgan made an appearance before the Senate banking committee at the outset of the Roosevelt administration. Among the Morgan banking partners expected to be called by the committee are Thomas W. Lamont and George Whitney, pictured with Morgan and Nye.

The Tragedy Of Sir Henry Thornton

By D'Arcy Marsh

CHAPTER VII.

It was toward the end of 1927 that Sir Henry, at the behest of the Government of Mexico, made the trip to that country which caused Bishop Fallon to write his intemperate letter to the press. The situation of the railway in the Republic, which had been under the control of an Englishman named Holloway, for a long time had been anything but satisfactory, particularly with regard to its finances, a position mentioned in the Thornton Report as "primarily due to the unsettled state of the country for several years, coupled with attempts to execute contracts with insufficient assurance of performance, and finally to a scheme of administration which is neither nationalization nor private control and which seems to combine most of the disadvantages of both."

REFUNDING SCHEME

In so far as the report itself is concerned, it is interesting chiefly in that it recommended a course of action diametrically opposite to that which had been followed in Canada in regard to the railways, which composed the Canadian National.

In the matter of the heavy debt which rested on the Mexican railways, it was suggested that a reduction of interest be met by a refunding scheme, which would bring into being preferred stock bearing 2 per cent one year, 3 per cent the next, and so on until the maximum and permanent figure of 5 per cent was reached; to make operations more efficient, it was suggested that the government be relieved of direct financial responsibility and guarantees with respect to the railway, and that the operating control of the property be placed in the hands of the bondholders.

In order to bring about the latter, the report urged that the final authority for administration of the railway should be vested in a board of directors consisting of seven members, of whom all but one should be residents of Mexico—three selected by the bondholders, three by the government, and the seventh by joint agreement between the two. The purpose of this was to secure equality of representation for two groups whose interests might conflict, and this scheme has points in common with Mr. Beatty's latest proposal (made in 1933) for solving the Canadian transportation problem.

HIGHER RATE NEED

The report contained, in addition, recommendations regarding the need for a higher freight rate, the proper organization and treatment of Labor, and for the encouragement of tourist traffic. Mr. Henry, of the Bureau of Economics, and Mr. Mallory, of the Canadian National Railway's Bureau of Statistics, spent some time in Mexico on preliminary work, for Sir Henry could spare only a few weeks for personal observation. Differences between Mexico and Canada regarding the type of country, the type of people and national habits account for the diametrically opposite point of view which Sir Henry took toward Mexican railway problems, compared with those of his own country.

As a diplomatic gesture, the survey was perhaps of more importance than as a suggested solution of Mexico's transportation difficulties, for the report did not survive political and other vicissitudes long enough to be implemented in its main recommendations. On November 16 the Thorntons arrived in Mexico and Sir Henry conferred immediately with Montes de Oca, Minister of Finance, and Bertran Holloway, the head of the railway. But social items played an important part. Lady Thornton created a most favourable impression.

At Queretaro, where they stopped on the way down to Mexico City from a trip into the hills, she roused the party greatly by refusing the proffered champagne and asking for a genuine Mexican drink. The only type available was the native Mexcal, as strong a mixture as anyone could demand, but she went through it, without any disastrous results.

CATHEDRAL VISITED

There was a visit to the cathedral in Mexico City, the most famous Roman Catholic structure in Latin America. It had been closed for twelve months, owing to the withdrawal of all priests, but it was opened for the Thorntons, who were allowed to inspect the treasures it held—old porcelains and valuable paintings and tapestries; there was golf with Sir Esmond Ovey, the British minister, and there was a trip to the unique Churubusco Convent and lunch at the Chapultepec Country Club and a bull fight, where six bulls from Mexico's most famous breeding establishment had been assembled for the occasion.

Rumors spread that Sir Henry was to be offered the job of reorganizing the Mexican railways; they were heard on Wall street, reiterated and denied in London, published in Montreal and Toronto. Sir Henry characterized them as "sheer bunkum" and, when he was not working in the specially transformed suite in the Finance Building on the railway question, applied himself to the encouragement of trade between Mexico and Canada, and to the cultivation of friendly relations between the Dominion and the Republic.

YEAR OF GRACE

For Thornton, 1928 was the year of grace. He had become more than a national figure; he was in a sense a Canadian ambassador without official credentials. The success of his Mexican experience, from a diplomatic point of view had invested him with a new importance outside the boundaries of Canada.

The fact that his railway was a national asset suggested to the peoples of other countries that he was identified with the government more directly than merely as administrator of the property.

And in the course of the European tour which he and Lady Thornton took in the summer of that year he was accorded a measure of honor enjoyed by few of the accredited delegates of the Dominion to the councils of Europe. The companion of statesmen and industrialists, the associate of princes, the honored guest of organized labor, he filled a role paradoxical as it was brilliant. Behind him lay the valleys and he walked on precarious heights.

On August 1 they sailed from New York on the Majestic; on September 4, at Birkenhead, Lady Thornton launched the Lady Drake, for the West Indies steamship service of the Canadian National; on September 5, Sir Henry called upon the Prince of Wales at St. James' Palace; then followed their tour of Europe. City after city honored them—and through them, Canada.

PRESIDENT'S GUEST

On September 11 they were given lunch by the president of the Dutch Central Emigration Foundation, close to Binnenhof, the large group of buildings which lies in the heart of the broad avenues and pleasant squares of The Hague; later they were taken to Rotterdam, the oldest and most characteristic of Dutch cities to whose canals Atlantic ships sail along the Nieuwe Waterweg from the Hook of Holland; in the evening they returned to The Hague, where a dinner was given in Sir Henry's honor by the directors of the Holland-America Line.

From there they went to Berlin and thence to Copenhagen, the capital and seaport of Denmark which stands on the two islands of Zealand Amager and over which broods the ancient Palace of the Rosenborg. At Gustavus Adolphus' city, Gothenberg, they attended a banquet arranged for their benefit by Mr. Axel Lagergren, of the Swedish-American Line. From there they went to Stockholm, and thence to Oslo, which was once Christiana, capital of Norway.

On September 23 they were welcomed amid the somewhat faded glories of Hamburg, whose prestige as one of the great shipping ports of the world had lessened since the war, and the same day paid a call at the modern city which has been built around the little moated town of Bremen, still capital of the small state of that name which is part of the German Reich. September 25 found them in Geneva, and three days later they were in Paris. In the course of their stay at the latter city Sir Henry addressed the Canadian Branch of the British Chamber of Commerce, and attended a dinner given to Mr. Mackenzie King by the France-America committee. Back in London on October 8, he spoke to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain and at a Canadian Club dinner to Mr. Mackenzie King. The Berengaria took them back to America on October 29.

THORNTON IN GERMANY

In Germany Sir Henry was provided with President von Hindenburg's private car, a rare gesture, and was tendered a magnificent dinner in Berlin by Dr. Dorpmueller, president of the German State Railway. Sir Henry aroused tremendous interest in this country because the German State Railway —at that time a road measuring 40,000 miles, the only single, unified system with greater mileage than the Canadian National—had five or six times as many employees as the Canadian railway and was faced by the insistent necessity to reduce that number without causing avoidable dislocation and distress. Many of the leading men in Germany of that time were present. That was before the collapse of the once powerful Social Democrat party, before the Nazi had wiped out the spirit of compromise.

MOVING SIDEWALKS, STAIRS, PASTEURZED AIR WILL BE COMMON WITHIN 50 YEARS

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Within 50 years you will breathe "pasteurized air," and probably will be able to pack your own private airplane under your arm, like a Christmas package.

These were among predictions of what may be looked for in the next 50 years, made Monday by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

"In the next 50 years," he said in an address, "Moving stairways will be common. Sidewalks also will become moving.

"When you want your auto you will pull it down with a skyhook, from where it is stored or parked in an overhead apparatus. The streets will be free for travel.

"The air will be pasteurized. Air conditioning will make unbelievable advances. You probably will find it healthier to stay indoors than breathe fumes outdoors.

"Artificial light will become a counterpart of sunlight. With the equivalent of the sun produced indoors there will be no need for windows for light.

"Elevators will run at increased speeds. Highways will be lighted almost as in the daytime.

"Leisure may become so common that you will work to escape sheer ennui.

"There may be individual flying machines, with folding wings, that you can pack under your arms.

"Tomorrow will depend more and more upon the vacuum tube to do the monotonous operations of industry. These tubes may see, hear, feel, smell, taste. Lest humans think of them as the developers of a robot age, it is well to remember that mechanical and electrical contrivances can act but cannot think."

BIG BANKER CHARGED WITH PLOTTING WAR

Evidence Shows Morgan Invited Britain Buy U.S. Arms Factory

By PRESTON L. GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Evidence that J. P. Morgan invited Great Britain to buy control of an American arms plant before the United States entered the Great War was introduced today in the senate investigation of war-time finance.

The invitation was contained in a cablegram from Morgan to the Morgan house in London. J. P. Morgan and company then was purchasing agent in the United States for Great Britain and France.

Dated Jan. 14, 1916, it said the Winchester Repeating Arms Company was in financial difficulties.

"The point is, would the British government be interested in purchasing this stock or in making any suggestions regarding its purchase, or would they like to investigate the situation with the possible view of J. P. Morgan and Company interesting others in the purchase in which event they might have to become a party?" the message continued.

The same munitions committee, examining Morgan and his partners, contends American financial transactions with the Allies led this country into the war.

It held in reserve today evidence that Morgan's company supplied Great Britain with "inside information" on American governmental activity before the United States joined the struggle.

Compensation Act Revision Sought

CALGARY, Jan. 8.—Revision of the Alberta Workmen's Compensation Act may be sought following the annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Labor here January 13, it was indicated Tuesday by Fred J. White, president of the federation.

"The Act needs revision to bring it into line with present day conditions," said Mr. White. Labor conditions had changed radically since the Act was framed, he added.

Several resolutions dealing with the Act will come before the convention.

Drunken Hold-Up Men Kill Waiters In Brooklyn Inns

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Drunken holdup men killed two waiters in Brooklyn beer taverns Tuesday.

As two reeling youths, waving pistols, were leaving a tavern with $105 loot, Ralph Misco, 32, a waiter, shortly to die with his heart broken by the turn of international events which so long had dominated that of Briand, Henderson and Lord Cecil from the councils of Geneva, still dominated the political scene and Bruening had not been driven from German public life. In the country as it was at that time, Thornton and the type of achievement he stood for were of deep interest and the enthusiasm he gave of Canadian life and of its transportation problems accorded the widest publicity in a press still permitted to criticize and to interpret.

PROVOKES INTEREST

In Denmark the interest he provoked was no less. When his train reached Copenhagen early in the morning of September 15, Sir Henry was the first person to alight, but a press man and a group of reporters, with the request, "May we have an interview, Sir?" "I guess I can stand it if you can," he replied and made a statement which was circulated throughout the country. It was almost one of the busiest days of the tour.

Courtesy calls were made on the president of the State Railway; on the British Legation; on the head of the Scandinavian American Steamship Line, which Sir Henry described afterwards as "an extremely able and able old man with great influence beyond the borders of Denmark;" on other steamship companies and on the Canadian National's own office. In the afternoon he gave press interviews, which resulted in a tremendous amount of publicity for Canada. Mr. Weir, in charge of this part of the tour, said of these and similar pronouncements, "Indeed, these interviews, together with preliminary publicity which had gone out, resulted in something like 200 articles in the Danish press, running from one half column to a column and a half or more.

"Never have we been able to get across so much effective publicity, not only for the Canadian National but for the country, her people, her resources and her institutions."

A representative of one newspaper, Berlingske, characterized Sir Henry as "the most outstanding personality that in my recollection has visited Copenhagen."

RUN CARTOONS

The Danish press ran amusing but complimentary cartoons as is their wont probably to a greater extent than anywhere else in Europe. In Norway, Sir Henry and members of his party were taken to see Lava Vial, the leading Danish comedienne. Denmark and Canada had long felt a strong mutual interest in each other, owing largely to their common agricultural interests. The cooperative movement, which in Canada has reached its finest flower among the quiet-hearted Danes, and which was at that time making rapid strides against early set-backs in Canada, especially in the West, provided yet another common interest.

Sir Henry's competence to discuss this phase of Canadian life was of particular value. The next afternoon found them in Gothenberg, where they dined with the president of the Swedish Steamship Line, and on the following morning they arrived in Stockholm. They had travelled in the day-time, so that Sir Henry might see the great electrification scheme of the Swedish State Railways, one of the largest of its kind in the world, and the chief engineer of the railway had been asked by the authorities to accompany them on this part of the trip.

Quintuplet Davenport Displayed

Five - Purpose Creation

Latest In Furniture

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Now it's the quintuplet davenport.

This five-purpose piece of furniture—it's a davenport, a bed, a cellarette, a bookcase and four bridge seats—was unveiled Sunday at Trican Furniture Mart's winter wholesale market.

At each end of the new davenport is an end table, the top of which serves as an armrest when covered with an upholstered pillow. The front half of each end table opens up—and, behold, a cellarette with service for six. Book shelves are in the back half.

The davenport is 42 inches deep. An easy tug brings out half of the centre section, leaving sufficient place for a bridge table to be placed and three people to sit. The part pulled out is an ottoman and the seat for the fourth hand at bridge.

Another innovation is the "instrument board" electric stove that is almost cook-proof. This board, back on the top of the stove, has an electric clock, a heat regulator and a device that can be set to round an alarm when the previously determined cooking time is up.

One of the new baby carriages is stream-lined, after the fashion of the latest automobiles. This coach has bumpers and a handy compartment outside in back for carrying packages.

SEARCH IS ON FOR MISSING ALASKA PLANE

Pilot Jack Herman and Three Passengers Four Days Overdue

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 8—Pilot Jack Herman, 25, Fairbanks, flying a transport plane, and three passengers were four days overdue last night from Akiak, near Bethel on the Kuskokwim rive

Pilot Jimmy Lynn and two passengers took off from here Tuesday to search for the plane. Other pilots, operating from Bethel, have hunted since Monday without success.

Aboard Herman's ship when it left Akiak Friday were Deputy U. S. Marshal Nels Anderson of Bethel, Dr. Morton Myers of Akiak and William Chenoy of Akiak. Pilots believed the plane may have been forced down between Ruby and Akiak, 350 miles apart.

"The Way to Health"

—WITH—

DR. FRANK McCOY!

PHYSICIAN — AUTHOR — LECTURER

As man advances along the path of civilization he falls a victim to maladies unknown—or at least uncommon—to his forefathers. In man's earlier environment vibrant vital health followed as a matter of course.

To achieve and to hold one's health is the goal of all intelligent citizens. Health today is the pearl of greatest price. Fortunately for modern man, medical science has scored tremendous advances and can help him to achieve it.

However, the layman needs instruction in simple, easy-to-understand language and no medical man writing for popular consumption succeeds better in this task than does Dr. Frank McCoy.

Along with his simply worded expositions of current maladies, Dr. McCoy preaches a few simple rules of health—with particular emphasis on diets.

Many thousands owe their very lives to Dr. Frank McCoy.

Chinese Students In Revolt, Riot

NANKING, China, Jan. 8—The smouldering student movement flared into open rioting in China's capital today. Students of the University of Nanking, a missionary institution in which American control is predominant, attacked and badly mauled a Chinese gendarme whom they caught tearing down posters urging China to resist foreign invasion.

27 KILLED AT SEA AS MIGHTY STORMS RAGING

France Ravaged by Floods —Britain Suffers Toll

LONDON, Jan. 8. — Twenty-seven persons were known dead last night in shipwrecks at sea and accidents in northern Europe since Sunday, while France was ravaged by floods.

It was feared the death toll in the Irish Sea, where a hurricane struck over the week-end, may be at least a dozen more because of reports of the disappearance of coastal vessels.

Ten died in the foundering of the drifter Shore Breeze, three were killed aboard the Blue Funnel liner Ulysses by a big wave, and one person was washed from the fishing boat Feasible, all in the Irish Sea.

TRANSPORT WRECKED

Nine were drowned off Hangoe, Finland, when a military transport was wrecked. Four were drowned near Hamburg, Germany, in the collision of a tug and a launch.

The coastal steamer Dromaine, unreported since it took on a pilot off Newcastle, Northern Ireland, Sunday returned to Newcastle last night. She was badly battered but the crew and pilot were safe.

Flooded rivers menaced hundreds of cities and towns in France. There was only boat traffic in the streets of Nantes, where the river Loire was at its highest since 1910.

Lyon and Avignon were inundated by the waters of the Rhone.

BARGE TRAFFIC STOPPED

Parisian authorities halted all barge traffic in the Seine, where floods destroyed produce piled on wharves. The Seine, however, was expected to begin dropping tonight. Other rivers caused much damage to farms.

A mild flooding of some inland parts of England was not serious but more rain was predicted.

The Moor liner Pearlmoor, which sent out an SOS from the Irish Sea Sunday, reached Barry, Wales, safely. The Cunard-White Star liner Ausonia reached Tilbury docks, Essex, although she was reported by the Exchange Telegraph Agency to have sent out SOS messages Monday night.

LAND INJURED

The Salacia, out of Cardiff, Wales, was reported to have put in at Falmouth, to land the chief officer and two seamen who were injured when a gigantic wave smashed against the steamship.

The Gothic Star, enroute to Vancouver and the French steamer Normand also sought shelter from the storm at Falmouth.

Twenty vessels were trying to ride out the storm in Brixham Roads and Tor Bay, on England's southwestern coast.

Ingot Steel Shows Production Rise

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The steel industry has come out of the holiday lull with a rise in the ingot production rate to 51 per cent of capacity compared with 47½ per cent a wek ago. Iron Age stated today in its weekly review.

The rebound was shared in by most producing centres, the south being the only important district to show a slower rate of operations.

Lloydminster Wins By 3-0 Shutout

LLOYDMINSTER, Jan. 8.—Lloydminster Prolites won their second straight game from the Kerrobert Tigers in the most hectic game seen at the local arena this season, that was featured by penalties galore in the final frame. At one stage of the game the visitors only had three men on the ice and the Prolites four. The Prolites got a shutout, the final score being 3-0.

Arrangements are now being made for the Lloydminster Prolites annual trip into Alberta. On their return from their western tour they will play a couple of games at home, and then will leave for Flin Flon.

POLICE HOLD YOUTH AFTER DEATH PROBE

Follows Investigation Of Tragedy at Pacific Junction, N.B.

MONCTON, Jan. 8.—Royal Canadian Mounted Police announced last night they had taken into custody Arthur William Bannister, 21, in connection with the investigation into the deaths of Phillip Lake, 30, his wife and two children Monday at Pacific Junction.

Police stated Bannister would be arraigned in court Wednesday, but did not specify on what charge. He lives a few miles from the little settlement where bodies of three members of the Lake family were found yesterday.

Mrs. Lake and her 20-months-old son Jackie were found frozen in snow about 200 yards from the fire-swept ruins of their home. Mr. Lake's body, burned almost beyond recognition, was in the cellar and the second child, a six-months-old girl, was missing. She was presumed to have perished in the flames.

Police stated circumstances pointed to foul play. The mother bore only superficial burns but had a deep gash in the head. Her baby, lying beside her, showed no marks of injury, apparently having frozen to death.

FARM LEADERS TO TALK PLANS IN WASHINGTON

Called to Capitol in Light Of Supreme Court's Decision

By JERRY GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Wanly surveying the ruins of his farm-aid program, President Roosevelt reported last night his only decision so far is to ask congress to reimburse farmers for suddenly-terminated AAA contracts.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, however, called 70 farm leaders to Washington for a conference Friday and Saturday "to discuss plans for agriculture in light of the supreme court's decision in the Hoosac Mills case."

Earlier, Wallace warned in a speech against a return to farm conditions of 1932. All field activities of AAA were halted. Employees here reported for work as usual, although the treasury reported it had stopped writing cheques for administrative expenses as well as payments to farmers under the invalidated law.

Congressional leaders tried to guage the effect of the decision in the country, with no immediate conclusions.

The effect on other New Deal laws received renewed appraisal, with considerable sorrowful head-shaking.

Belief was expressed that the administration would strive for approval of some form of immediate, concrete program to conserve aid given farmers through the AAA.

Japan Still Holds Firm On Naval Demand

LONDON, Jan. 8.—A Japanese spokesman announced today his nation's delegation to the international naval conference, while ready to discuss the subject, was not particularly interested in British, French and Italian proposals for an exchange of fleet information.

The spokesman asserted the Japanese considered total tonnage limitations and building program proposals much more important and would continue to seek discussion of those aspects of the conference's problems.

The Japanese declined to accept the opinions of other delegations that their equality demands had been definitely shelved, indicating they expected to revive the question later.

Today's Markets

At Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Trading in the gold stocks expanded sharply on the mining department of the Toronto Exchange today on a rumor that the defeat of the AAA in the United States would lead to another dose of inflation through a marking up of the price of gold.

Senior gold stocks showed gains ranging up to 1½ points. Some base metal and silver stocks stiffened also. Volume was the heaviest in weeks. Gains were trimmed slightly in the last 20 minutes.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—Periods of strength developed on the Toronto industrial share market today.

Turnover was again heavy in the oils, nickel, Brazilian, gypsum and C.P.R., but gains among these were only in minor fractions. International Petroleum added ⅜ and Nickel had about the same advance.

Distillers-Seagrams closed around 34, up ¼. Walkers common at 32¾, unchanged, and Industrial Alcohol A at 10½ for a moderate gain. The Brewing Corporation stocks ruled higher while Canada Bud and Canada Malting eased back slightly.

A strong display was given by the Quebec Power issues and other utilities to work higher included Consumers and Bell Telephone.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Jan. 8.—Gains ranging to seven points were marked up on Montreal Stock Exchange today in a session that saw more than a half-dozen issues reach new highs for a year or more.

Woods Manufacturing preferred recorded a gain of 11½ points but dropped back to hold a seven-point advance just before the final bell.

Gainers of from one to more than six points included Steel of Canada preferred, Viau preferred, Montreal Cottons preferred, Lake of the Woods preferred, Canada Wire and Cable "A" and International Power preferred.

Sherwin Williams preferred added three points to reach a new high of 120.

At New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—A few groups stood out today with special strength in a generally improved stock market.

Oils and industrial specialties were strong. Rails and utilities failed to hang on to all their early gains. General lifts ranged from fractions to 2 points or more, with a number of new highs for several years registered.

The close was firm. Transfers approximated 3,350,000 shares.

WHEAT LOWER 'PEG MARKET

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8.—Apathy prevailed on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, with price movements few and far between. Wheat prices closed ⅜ cent lower, May at 88⅝ and July 89 cents.

Pit operations were restricted to occasional selling orders from the Canadian Wheat Board, taken care of without difficulty by equally light buying. Export sales aggregated less than 250,000 bushels.

Liverpool, up ⅛d early, closed ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower, while Chicago relinquished most of an early gain.

Demand continued slow in the cash-grains section. Coarse grains prices eased fractionally in a dull market.

BROOMHALL

CHICAGO, Jan. 7.—There was a slight decrease in American stocks of Canadian wheat this week, but the total in bond is still large at 34,960,000 bushels. A few hundred thousand bushels are being taken out each week for consumption and some for grinding into flour for export in bond, but very little is coming in from Canada now and the lakes are frozen. Chartering is active for Montreal shipment, but actual wheat export business is much quieter. Australia is a keen competitor despite the large sales during December, but continental importers are reselling some of this wheat to the U.K. and replacing it with Manitobas, which they consider a better buy at this level of price.

Bam Alone With Memories

"Me and My Memories." The favorite original in the den of Babe Ruth has to do with his saving baseball following the Chicago "Black Sox" scandal. At right he is snapped in an intimate dressing-gown pose at home with his pipe. Note double chin.

Baseball Doesn't Want Ruth; He Goes To Yanks' Camp Alone

By HARRY GRAYSON

This is the first of four articles on Babe Ruth, the man baseball forgot.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Baseball no longer wants George Herman Ruth, but George Herman Ruth wants baseball, so he's headin' south to sit on the sidelines for the first time in 23 years. The more you think of it, the stranger it seems that baseball denies a place to Ruth, the man who did more for it than any other individual.

Ruth's proudest possession is an original of a cartoon drawn while his mighty bat was making the public forget the Black Sox unpleasantness of 1919 and '20.

It depicts the sunshine of the Babe's brilliance and honesty dispelling the black cloud that enshrouded the game following the Chicago scandal. It hangs with many other mementos of the old home run king's remarkable career in the den of his magnificent 14-room apartment overlooking Grant's Tomb and the Hudson.

Ruth points to it, and says: "Baseball owners are a forgetful lot."

NO REAL BITTERNESS

There is no real bitterness in Ruth's heart. Babe was keenly disappointed at being unable to land a managerial appointment. The Bam rightfully felt that he was entitled to the opportunity. Col. Jacob Ruppert placed Bob Shawkey at the helm of the Yankees, yet refused the man who made possible the erection of the tremendous Yankee Stadium the same chance.

Ruth asserts that the Yankees quit him, and that it was not a case of his quitting the Yankees when he made the mistake of going to the Boston Braves last spring.

AS LEGS FAILED

Colonel Ruppert paid Ruth $35,000 in 1934, after which the daddy of all long distance hitters agreed that his spindly legs could no longer carry his huge body through regular assignments. During the world series that fall Babae announced that it was a pilot's position or nothing in 1935, but practically everybody suspected that he would remain with the outfit he made as a sort of show window.

GENUINE SURPRISE

There was genuine surprise therefore when Ruth signed a three-year parchment with the Boston Braves at $25,000. Babe's ambition to be an executive was satisfied when he was made a vice-president.

"The fact that I accepted $10,000 less from Judge Emil Fuchs as evidence of my willingness to stand a cut by the Yankees," explains the Bam, "I had good reason to believe that I would not be offered a contract."

WEALTHIEST CLUB

Ruth left one of the wealthiest organizations in the business for a broken outfit, and again was disappointed. But he is the type that gets over disappointments. "Baseball's all right," he laughs. "It's the owners in it."

Ruth still regards the Yankees as his ball club. And he's going to St. Petersburg, where he oiled up the most potent swing in the annals of the sport each spring since he joined the Yankees 17 years ago.

"I'm going to fish, golf, park myself on those green benches with the rest of the old folks, and watch the Yankees and Braves," declares Babe.

WONDERING CROWD

Everybody is more excited about what Ruth is going to do than the Bam himself. Ruth is the least-worried unemployed man in America, and why shouldn't he be?

Ruth, with his happy family around him, is worth $500,000, practically all of which is tied up in annuities. Babe earned a million in baseball salaries alone, not to mention the by-products. The annuities make it possible for him to live like an imperial potentate, which he does. Royalties on wearing apparel and whatnot, broadcasts, and writings bring in handsome returns.

ENGLISH WANT HIM

The English want him to teach baseball over there, and he has a similar offer from Japan. He can open a cafe or store on other people's money whenever he cares to. He rejects one proposition after another to go on tour. For the time being he has put everything off until 1937.

"Yes, I'd still like to manage a major league ball club, but baseball seems to have made up its mind that it can get along without me," says Ruth. "So I guess I'll have to struggle along without baseball."

NEXT: Babe Ruth's nemesis.

Calgary Defence Star Is Secured

Gordon "Tony" Savage, brilliant defenceman of Calgary Tigers, has been secured by Edmonton Eskimos of the Northwestern hockey league in a straight trade with Montreal Les Canadiens for Morey Rimstad, blond-thatched centre of the locals, it was announced last night by Henry J. Roche, owner and president of the Edmonton club.

Conditions of the deal are that Rimstad remain with Eskimos for the remainder of the Northwestern League schedule and join Canadiens next fall, while Savage will become a member of the Edmonton squad immediately, playing against his former Calgary team-mates in the southern city tonight.

The deal with Canadiens, who coached Savage last season, was concluded in a long-distance telephone conversation between Roche and Sylvio Mantha last evening, and confirmed by wire from the Canadiens' manager immediately after the talk.

OTHERS OFFERED

Mantha also notified Savage and the Calgary Tigers by wire that the deal had been concluded to send the defenceman to Edmonton.

Earlier this winter, Savage was traded to Calgary for McGregor on condition that the former Fort William defence star make good in the East. McGregor failed to click even in International League company and the result was that the Canadien-Calgary deal for Savage was declared off.

The Calgarian still remained the property of Montreal, though he continued to play with Tigers.

Management of the Tigers immediately telephoned Roche upon receipt of their wire confirming the deal and raised a loud protest at losing the starry defenceman. The local owner merely laughed it all.

TRIED HARD FOR DEAL

For the greater part of the early season, Roche tried with every means in his power to get Savage from Calgarians. He offered cash; offered players; offered, in fact, anything he possessed for the brilliant former Tiger, topped by Mc-Bride and Bill Gutowski, travelled to Lougheed to lift the Whyte and the cup remained in Lougheed until the following Monday, when Bill Rose and Bill Murray, skipping two Selkirk rinks, invaded Lougheed and took the coveted trophy home with them.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Horace Stoneham, 32-year-old son of the late Charles A. Stoneham, is slated to succeed his father as majority owner and president of New York Giants, thus becoming the youngest chief executive of a baseball club in the history of Major League baseball.

Young Stoneham is still in Hot Springs, Ark., where his father died last night.

BACK IN FORM

RUSTY WYNN

Injured during the early training, "Rusty" Wynn is back in the game again, playing with Superiors on defence and will line-up with that club against Dominions in a senior league clash on Thursday. Soops have been taking it on the chin right along from the motormen, but they have every prospect of getting their much sought revenge on Thursday.

STARRY CARD OF GRAPPLERS FRIDAY SHOW

Bringing to Edmonton four of the most popular grapplers ever to appear on the local mat, Promoter Mike Cutcher offers enthusiasts a starry three bout card at the Empire theatre, Friday night.

In the first featured headline of the event, the "Bad Boy" from Great Falls, Montana, Bob Cummings, will be back to take a bow before his many followers here, in a bout with that classy Scot, Rob Roy.

The final headline feature of the card should pack nearly all the thrills of a battle royal, as Hugh Adams risks his handsome growth of whiskers against that villainous gentleman, Eddie Meyers.

The usual one-fall preliminary will star Charlie Fraser, who gave a good show here on the last card, and Jack McCarthey, another classy local mat artist.

CITY SENIOR TEAMS CLASH BATTLE HERE

Superiors Out to Take the Dominions Into Camp

Meeting in a scheduled Senior league encounter, Dominions and Superiors will play at the Arena, Thursday night, the game starting at 8.30 o'clock.

The outcome of this game is awaited with interest by hockey fans and many wagers are being made on the probable victory of one or the other team. Dominions will take the ice as hot favorites to take the verdict, as they have won all previous encounters with Superiors. Fresh from their road trip, where they fought to a split verdict with the southern teams, winning one game and losing the other, they will be in great form. In their first game with Olds Elks, they came through in great style on the long end of a 4-1 verdict. However, they dropped the second game to Drumheller, losing out by a 1-0 score, thus breaking their unbeaten record.

While Superiors were also beaten to the tune of 6-0 by Drumheller, they showed real class in bowling over the Calgary Bronks 6-2 in a scheduled encounter here New Year's day. This would indicate that they are now hitting their stride and that they'll prove pretty tough for the Motormen. With the addition of Ralph Morgan with Mark Maverety to the Superior roster, Coach Ira Stuart is confident that his team is ripe to give Dominions a trouncing.

An interesting feature of tomorrow night's game will be the race between "Good Boy" Jimmy Graham and Coach Lowell "Lefty" Grove, as both are now tied for scoring honors.

Clarence Campbell will referee.

PAT'S PANS by BILL LEWIS

FOR the first time in quite a spell, there was a really well-satisfied smile on the face of Henry Joseph Roche, owner of Edmonton Eskimos, last night . . . With a beaming countenance that would take first prize at any Rotary convention, the boss of the Igloomen hove into the sanctuary of your reorder last night to announce what was possibly the most-gladsome tidings he has had to give out in a long, long time . . . If he had thought "Yippee" would be fitting in such a spot, Henry Joseph would probably have emitted that famed cry of the Western wilds.

Instead, however, the Eskimo owner waved a sheaf of telegrams in the face of your agent, topment of which was to the effect Gordon—otherwise "Tony"—Savage was to become the property of Eskimos in exchange for Morey Rimstad . . . The wire in question was signed by Silvo Mantha, manager of Canadiens, which gave it the required authenticity.

JUST in case you have forgotten, Savage was the property of Montreal Les Canadiens last season . . . As a merchant of Red Deer now, he desired to remain in Alberta this winter, so Calgary traded Wilf McGregor for him—but there was a catch in the deal . . . It was stipulated McGregor, fresh from amateur ranks, must make good in pro company before it was a deal . . . McGregor was far from good enough for any kind of professional hockey, so the deal was off, and Roche, who had been angling for Savage early in the season, was offered Savage for Morey Rimstad . . .

As a matter of fact, there was quite a bit of preliminary dickering for some days, the Montreal club wanting a couple of players at first . . . Roche stuck to his guns, though, and it became a straight deal. Savage for Rimstad, which gives the Esks an outstanding defence player and gives Morey the chance he deserves to make good in big-time next season.

WITHOUT further ado, officials of the Canadian Olympic committee yesterday let ride their decision to drop four members of the Dominion's Olympic hockey team for demanding that their families be taken care of while they were away at the games in Berlin . . . According to what dope can be gathered, the four Halifax players who were chosen to bolster Port Arthur Bearcats for the Olympics were "not so hot," and everyone of the others were satisfied with the action in declaring them "out," but the fact remains that something is wrong about the whole Olympic set-up.

J. P. Fitzgerald, sports editor of the Toronto Telegram, bears out the opinion expressed by your reporter yesterday. . . . He says:

"These Olympic games are the cause of more troubles and bickerings, both in the selections of teams and in the competition itself than all the rest of the sport world combined. It has ceased to be a question whether these competitions are worth it. They are not."

WINDSOR WHIPPED

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8—A four-goal splurge in the third period brought the Pittsburgh Shamrocks a 5-1 victory over the Windsor Bull Dogs in an International league hockey game. The triumph reduced to one point Windsor's lead over the locals in the Western division.

E.A.C. OUT TO PROTECT LEAD GAME TONIGHT

League Leading Honors Staked in Game at Arena

With their slim one point lead at stake, the Edmonton Athletic Club opposes the South Side Athletics in a scheduled Junior league encounter at the Arena tonight starting at 8.30.

The boys will be at their best tonight as they fight for the top slot. E.A.C.'s are now ahead of the pack with a scant one point margin and right on their heels are those South Siders, while the Canadians are following close, one point behind South Side. An E.A.C. victory tonight will give the Club boys a more comfortable lead of three points, while South Side can jump in the lead with a one point margin if they win.

The juniors have been playing heads up hockey since the start of the season and a good idea of the respective strength of the teams can be gathered from the close race they are running for leading honors. While the first games of the year would have shown the E.A.C. and South Side squads at the strong teams, the Canadians have been showing great form in their last games and will make a strong bid for championship honors.

Bud Cheeney, who was away for a few days holiday at home in the last South Side encounter, will be back with his regular string tonight and will give the team added strength.

Clarence Campbell will referee.

LEAFS, FALCONS PLAY TO 1-1 TIE

In a fast game of hockey, Maple Leafs and Falcons, of the Midget League, battled to a 1-1 draw at the 96th street rink last night.

BOSTON, DETROIT WIN MAJOR HOCKEY BATTLES

Eddie Shore Leads Bruins To Triumph Over Chicago Club

Bruising Bruin Defence Ace Starts Scoring Power Plays

BOSTON, Jan. 8—Playing four against three, Boston Bruins registered two goals in 14 seconds to gain a 2-0 victory over Chicago Blackhawks before 13,000 at Boston Garden.

The scores were made during the second period when referees Mike Rodden and Billy Bell enforced the interference rule to the limit. After a Bruin was sent off, two Hawks followed immediately to give the victory starved Bostonians the break they spent a good half-hour trying to force.

While Marty Burke and Art Coulter rested in the pen with "Red" Beattie, the Bruins stormed Chicago ice with four men, and Eddie Shore fed scoring passes to Bill Cowley and Cooney Weiland.

The game, due to the visitors defence style of play, was rather monotonous but Beattie and Burke McFadyen gave the action a much needed lift by engaging in some mild third period fisticuffing and drawing major penalties as their reward.

LINEUPS:

Boston: Thompson; Jenkins, Shore; Kaminsky; Runge, Sands. Subs: Weiland, Beattie, Clapper, Siebert, Graham, O'Neil, Duguid, Cowley.

Chicago: Karakas; Burke, Levinsky; Morenz; Gottselig, Marsh. Subs: F. Thompson, Romnes, McFadyen, Wiebe, Coulter, Trudel, Cook, Laroche.

Detroit Outscores Ranger Squad, 2-1

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Detroit Red Wings strengthened their hold on first place in the United States division of the National Hockey League by defeating the second place New York Rangers 2-1 before 10,000 persons here last night. Red Wings gained the lead halfway through the first period when Pete Kelly scored on Doug Young's assist. Herbie Lewis increased the margin early in the second session when his shot from the side went into the Ranger goal off Bill Cook's skate when Irving Johnson was in the penalty box.

It was Johnson who saved the Gotham sextet's shutout a minute out. He banged Glen Brydson's pass into the Detroit cage near the middle of the second frame. Detroit was a man short at the time, Kelly being in the penalty box.

LINEUPS:

Rangers: Kerr; Ayres, Seibert; Boucher; Bill Cook, Dan Cook. Subs: Dillon, Shedden, Patrick, Keeling, Brydson, Connolly, Heller, Johnson.

Detroit: N. Smith; Young, McDonald; Barry; Aurie, Lewis. Subs: Howe, W. Kilrea, Sorrell, Her. Kilrea, Pettinger, Kelly, Goodfellow, Bowman.

Jimmie Young and Ronnie Brown were the scorers for Jasper Place with one each. Both goals were tallied in the first period, with good scoreless competition during the second and third frames.

In the juvenile game, Scott was the scorer for Cloverdale, but his marker was matched by an equalizer from Calder.

Cloverdale's seniors, put on the heat in their clash with Bonnie Doon, winning by a score of 4-2. Watt got two of the four with Banta and Scot getting one each.

POLICE, BAY CAPTURE ONE GAME APIECE

Cockshutt and Sales Are Losers by 6-1, 5-4, Respectively

The Independent league resumed its regular schedule last night with a brace of games at Varsity rink.

The first battle of the evening saw the bouncing Hudson's Bay romp to a 6-1 victory over Cockshutt Plow, thereby taking the lead in league standings. The play however, was closer than the score would indicate, and the game was interesting throughout. The Bays had nevertheless an edge in play, which combined with a few breaks gave them their five score margin. Graham and Canty each scored twice for the winners, while Donald and Lundy got one each. Shearer scored for the losers.

The R.C.M.P. squad, fielding a strengthened team, won their second victory of the season, over W. W. Sales in the second encounter of the evening, by a 5-4 score.

This game was fast and close, with P. Block, of the cop squad starring for his team when he countered all five goals. Wener, with two, D. Campbell and Ainsley with one each accounted for the Sales counters.

Port Arthur Cats Beaten By Toronto Exhibition Clash

Canadian Olympics Team Loses To Dukes By Score of 4-3

By ELMER DULMAGE

TORONTO, Jan. 8.—The Canadian Olympic hockey team from Port Arthur made its debut in the east, dropping a rousing overtime game to Toronto Dukes, 4-3, after staging a furious third period rally that wiped out a three-goal deficit.

Shaken, perhaps, by an early morning rulling that took away the four Halifax members of the team, the Bear Cats were outplayed for two periods by a decisive margin. Only in the third and overtime periods did they win the hearts of 4,000 spectators who had been all but dismayed.

GOT THREE GOALS

The powerful Dukes, leaders of the Ontario Hockey Association's eastern group, a collection of stars who are being groomed for an Allan cup conquest, went to work in the second period, scoring three goals while the Olympians were shorthanded. They battled up the Bear Cat attack and seemed on their way to an easy triumph.

Frank O'Brien had a hand in all three goals. He scored one himself, passed to Gurney Large for another and to Shortly Robinson for a third.

At the 6:17 mark in the third period Dave Neville, former Montreal Royals winger, fired a waist high shot into the Toronto net on a passout from Gus Sabiga. Jack Church, hard-hitting defenceman, was serving a penalty when the goal was scored.

GOLDIE WAS GOOD

Then the Bear Cats piled in for shot after shot on Andy Goldie, who was largely responsible for the ultimate Duke victory. With less than four minutes left to play, the Ports got it up. Alex Sinclair banged in one during a four man rush, slipping into close quarters with Goldie and rattling the puck into a corner. Twenty seconds later Num Findlay broke away from his own end of the rink and laid a perfect pass on the stick of Arnold Duncan who whipped home the tying goal.

TORONTO, Jan. 8 — "Pud" Kitchen, defenceman of the Toronto Dukes, and Hugh Farquharson of the Montreal Victorias will play with Canada's Olympic hockey team, P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, announced last night.

Earlier in the day, Dinty Moore, goaltender of the Port Colborne Sailors, accepted an invitation.

Barman-Bath Scrap Is Off For Friday

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 — The much publicized scrap between heavyweights Hank Bath and Red Burman, with those old "pulley wailer," Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey, whooping it up in rival corners, will not go on at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The New York State Athletic Commission refused to license Bath in time for a Friday night appearance.

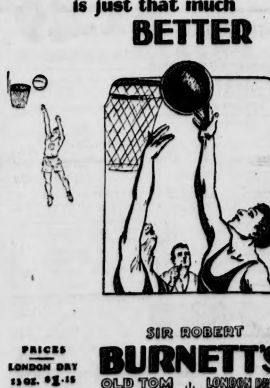

Labor Disputes Cause Concern

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 8.—Spreading maritime labor disputes on the Pacific Coast caused increasing concern Tuesday as William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, joined federal officials in urging seamen to resume work.

Green and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, appealed to striking seamen of the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvania to take the vessel out of port here and submit to mediation their demand for east, bay schedules ranging from $45 to $62.50 a month instead of the east-coast scale of $35 to $57.50.

The Pennsylvania, now four days behind sailing schedule for New York, was one of 36 vessels tied up by labor disputes at Pacific ports.

TIME TO "TAKE STOCK"

IT IS an immemorial custom of retail business to take account of stock in January. Down comes every bolt of cloth off the shelves—every dress and pair of shoes—every can of tomatoes—every tube of tooth paste. Busy clerks check inventory. Managers figure their new merchandise requirements.

And then comes the sales!

There's an idea in all this for the woman who runs her home on a business basis. No need to spend days at it. But why not take a systematic peek at the linen closet when you're upstairs? An appraising glance at the medicines and toilet requisites in the bathroom cabinet? A candid look at the furniture while you're dusting?

It's' time to take stock. And when you've made a list of the things you need, sit down with this newspaper and see how economically you can buy them now — during January's stock-taking sales. You'll be delighted, as you read the advertisements, to find how far a moderate outlay will go!

PLAN TO VOTE OIL EMBARGO AGAINST ITALY ABANDONED

RIOT PROBE CONTINUING

REGINA, Jan. 8.—On the night of the Regina riot, July 1, he had heard a striker say to some rioters on Hamilton street, "Here, fellows, some rifles are in here," as they approached the Western Cycle Company premises, G. R. Birchall, cigar store salesman, told the riot inquiry Tuesday afternoon.

Birchall said windows were smashed in the cycle company's store, but he saw nothing further happen there.

Birchall was the only witness other than Arthur Evans, striker leader, who occupied the stand most of the afternoon identifying telegrams of the strike organization, reports of his speeches and listening to the stenographic report of the interview that took place at Ottawa in June between the striker's delegation of eight and the Bennett cabinet.

Say Existing Sanctions To Halt Il Duce

By ROBERT PARKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 8—The League of Nations has virtually abandoned a plan to vote an oil embargo against Italy, it was reported last night in diplomatic circles.

These sources said this decision is "practically certain," since a poll of League Council members showed the belief that existing sanctions will soon bring an end to Italy's ability to carry on the war.

Military and naval activity in southern France increased while French and British military experts, officials said, carried on "normal conversations between two friendly nations."

Major General Gustave Gamelin, chief of the army general staff, completed a military inspection of troops and fortifications along the Italian frontier today. The ministry of the navy announced the Mediterranean fleet is scheduled to hold a series of three manoeuvres off Corsica.

The Mediterranean manoeuvres will begin January 20, when the League Council meets.

At the same time France's Atlantic fleet is expected to anchor at Casablanca on a 45-day cruise near Gibraltar.

YOUTH AGAIN SURVIVOR OF COAST STORM

Swept From Foundering Craft Twice in as Many Days

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8—Twice in as many days the icy waters of the Gulf of Georgia plucked haggrily at young Johnny Blackmore but each time the 22-year-old fishing boat owner held out grimily and last night he is recovering from his latest encounter with the elements that whip up those sudden gales along Canada's lower Pacific Coast, holding terror for the mariner caught in them.

Swept from the deck of a foundering 25-foot craft early Tuesday and buffeted mercilessly by the pounding waves as he attempted to swim the mile to shore, Johnny was cast up unconscious on the beach near the University area.

FOUND BY RELATIVES

For more than two hours he lay almost completely covered with sand and weed until finally found by frantic relatives and friends who had been combing the beach and scanning the calming waters for trace of him.

"It was pretty bad, all right," Johnny smiled wanly from his convalescent bed in the home of his aunt, where he was taken. "But then you have to expect things like that once in a while."

Early Monday morning his own trim 32-foot craft foundered in practically the same spot when he was caught in a gale while bringing a load of brick from Anvil Island. He managed to swim ashore and built a fire, where he huddled until daylight, then went to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Lucy Ward on Lulu Island. It has been his home since he left England with her 11 years ago, with the exception of the last four years, which he has spent on his fishing boat.

VESSEL FOUNDERED

Tuesday he and his friend, 18-year-old Freddy Alcock, set out in the latter's 22-foot craft to salvage the engine and stove in Johnny's wrecked boat. On the way back Fred's engine stalled. A gale blew up and for two hours they took to the oars in an attempt to avoid the rocky shore. Finally Johnny told his companion to take the dingy and go for help. While Freddy was away his vessel foundered.

"I put on one of the lifebelts, just in case, and stuck as long as I could," Johnny said. "I wanted to save Freddy's boat but a couple of big ones got me and I had to swim for it. I was about 200 yards from shore when I lost consciousness. The next thing I knew I woke up in bed."

BOAT TOTAL WRECK

His experience Johnny takes philosophically, but the loss of his boat—it's a total wreck—is different. It has been his home and livelihood since he got it. Now both are gone. Of course he can stay with his aunt.

"And gladly," she says. "But he's too independent."

A. W. SHAW IS CHAMBER HEAD AT VEGREVILLE

Annual Report Shows Year Of Activity in Many Matters

VEGREVILLE, Jan. 8.—A. W. Shaw was elected president of the Vegreville Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting held Monday. W. A. Headrick becomes first vice president with J. Blackburn as second vice president. The following were elected to the council: P. Bayer, C. W. Clifton, A. W. Fraser, E. R. Horton, F. W. Laing, E. Panar, G. Warren and L. B. Yule.

The annual report showed that the chamber had been most active. A reduction in local freight rates was secured, assistance had been rendered the Vegreville Exhibition, representations had been made to the town council respecting the gas franchise, weekly half-holidays, and other civic matters. The dominion government had been urged to disburse the 1930 Wheat Pool surplus, to energetically push the sale of Canadian wheat abroad, and to set a minimum price on feed grades.

Both province and dominion had been petitioned to assume the burden of unemployment relief, the province had been urged to change the status of Vegreville from a subjudicial to a separate judicial district. Funds had been raised to provide 85 Christmas hampers for the poor, a bargain shopping week had been sponsored; efforts had been made to secure the construction of a north and south highway.

The Herridan plan of British Immigration had been studied with a view to local participation, resolutions had been passed in respect to changes in the customs tariff, and many matters of a less important nature had been considered.

ONTARIO WILL HAVE DEFICIT

TORONTO, Jan. 8—Predicting a deficit ranging from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 on government operations for the year ending March 31, Acting Premier Harry Nixon Tuesday said that while all direct relief would be charged to "ordinary expenditure," road work and other permanent construction would be regarded as "capital."

Mr. Nixon said there was nothing improper in such accounting.

"No one has ever suggested it should not be charged to capital," he said. "The building of new roads is clearly capital expenditure. There is a tangible asset to show for the money. We objected to direct relief, which leaves no asset, being considered as capital expenditure by the last government."

Kidnapped Child Found Unharmed

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 8.—Three-year-old Ernest Paul Kay, Jr., was found unharmed here last night two hours after he had been kidnapped from in front of his home, away in his father's parked automobile.

The distracted father, an employee of the Lexington Utilities Company, had borrowed an automobile and joined in a general police hunt for the kidnapper.

Police said the child was found in the north part of the city, and expressed belief the automobile thief had headed toward Cincinnati. An intensive patrol of the highways was ordered.

SON MOURNED AS DEAD BACK FROM PRISON

CALGARY, Jan. 8.—A son who was mourned as dead has been re-united with his mother, two months after the death of his father.

The son is Peter Fleming, alias John Kelly, returned here from San Quentin penitentiary, in California, to face charges of robbery and jail breaking.

Fleming tried to keep the identity of his family secret but a little gray-haired woman appeared at the city jail Monday and asked if she could see "her boy." It was Fleming's mother and she was permitted to see him in his cell. It was their first meeting in more than six years.

Fleming, who escaped from jail here in 1929 by crawling through an air vent, had told police: "I have no relatives or friends in the city."

After his escape, he followed a career of crime in Hollywood, robbing the homes of movie celebrities. Captured, he spent four years in San Quentin. He was deported to Canada and returned here under police escort Sunday.

Film Star's Mother Pleads Birth Control

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. — Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, mother of the film star, Katharine Hepburn, today was launched on her 1936 campaign to change United States law to permit dissemination of birth control information.

In a speech here last night, she said it would make for morality, not destroy it, her argument being that happy marriage is a powerful factor for morality; birth control a powerful factor for happy marriage.

As part of the training course of London's police car drivers, a stuffed dummy is hurled in front of their vehicle at some unannounced point along a test course, and they are then rated on their ability to stop or swerve in time to avoid it.
